The Defeat of Von Der Tann.

LONDON, November 12.—A special dispatch to the World, from Tours, has the following: Full details of the victory of General D'Aurelles over Von der Tann have not yet been received. The engagement commenced both at the east and west of Orleans on the 9th inst., and was continued until the evening of the third day. During Thursday the French drove the Prussians from Orleans, inflicting severe loss upon them, and are now in occupation of the city. General Von der Tann, with the remnant of his army, is now retreating on the road leading from Orleans to Pithivieres, after vainly attempting to force his way through Chateauneuf and Montargis, where he hoped to join the army of Prince Frederick Charles. General D'Aurelles has a force of 50,000 men on the north bank of the Loire, and 70,000 men on the south bank. The destruction of the roads and bridges between Commercy and Orleans prevented the advance of the army under Frederick Charles. He has about 75,000 men, the greater part of whom, probably, are north of the Marne. After having disposed of the remnant of Von der Tann's army, D'Aurellis will march directly on Paris and assail the German lines between Versailles and St. Germain, while Trochu makes a sortie with 150,000 men to cut his way out and raise the siege. Communication between D'Aurelles and Trochu and the government at Tours is constantly maintained by carrier-pigeons.

Popular Feeling in England in Favor of the French.

LONDON, November 12.—The whole tide of popular feeling now in England is running strongly in favor of the French. Even the Times, feeling its influence, has changed its tone, and urges Germany to make peace and withdraw from France while she may do so with safety. This feeling is partly due to the horror excited by the barbarous and wholly unjustifiable conduct of the Prussians in attempting to suppress popular resistance in France, and partly to the rapidly growing conviction that England will be the next victim of German ambition. The speech of the Lord Chief Baron the other day, which declared that Austria would lie prostrate before Germany; that Russia will be compelled to barter her Baltic ports for Constantinople, and that England, being safe only so long as she was mistress of the seas, must arm herself for a desperate struggle, has produced great alarm and dismay, and a hearty wish for the repulse of the Germans and the triumph of the French.

Prussians Marching on Montmedy.

LONDON, November 12.—Six thousand German troops are marching on Montmedy. A renewal of the bombardment is expected.

Hamburg Threatened.

LONDON, November 12.—The Times correspondent, telegraphing from Berlin, announces the confirmation of the capture of Orleans. It is also confirmed that Russia has asked for a revision of the treaty of 1856.

There is considerable excitement here over the movements of the French fleet. News of the bombardment of Hamburg is hourly expected.

The battle of Orleans was very serious. One French line reached from Vendome to Beaugency.

Vessels Allowed to Enter Hamburg.

LONDON, November 12.—An official telegram has been received from the Admiral of the French Fleet saying that foreign coasting vessels will be allowed to enter Hamburg, but at their own risk.

The Crown Prince of Prussia has been made a field marshal.

The war material taken from the Prussians at Orleans is valued at 80,000,000 francs, including great quantities of chassepots and other arms.

Strength of the Opposing Armies at Orleans.

LONDON, November 12.—A special dispatch to the World, from Tours to-day, says that the whole loss of the Bavarians in the battles of the 9th and 10th was 3,140 men killed, wounded and taken prisoners. Von der Tann's effective force on the morning of the 11th was estimated at 20,000. He was then at Toury, twenty-five miles north of Orleans, where he was joined by Gen. Willich and Prince Albrecht, who, with one division of infantry and one of cavalry, 12,000 men strong, marched from Chartres to his aid. On the evening of the 11th he was further reinforced by the Duke of Mecklenburg with a corps composed of 23,000 men of all arms. This gives the Germans at Toury a force of 55,000 men. General D'Aurelles employed in all the engagements up to the 9th and 10th a force of 75,000 men. To-day he has not brought up the same force into action, but will bring up a force 100,000 strong, holding 50,000 in reserve. He intends to attack the Germans at Toury to-day or Sunday. The French army is elated at the victory, and anxious for the attack. The Government at Tours believes that Prince Frederick Charles, who is advancing from Commercy, will not be able to effect a junction with Von der Tann before the 15th. It has also received very important information from Rouen and Amiens about Bourbaki's army.

Heavy Requisitions.

LONDON, November 12.—The Echo Du Nord, at Lille, has an article to-day, saying that the Prussians at St. Quentin and elsewhere continue to make heavy requisitions on the people. They have demanded large sums from Le Neuvon, Le Catelle, Hirson and other towns in the neighborhood, which are not yet in their possession. The inhabitants of these towns have armed to resist.

The Designs of Russia—Baron Von Beust in Bavaria.

LONDON, November 1.—The Russian Minister here read to Lord Granville a letter from Prince Gortschakoff, stating that Russia demands the modification or abolition of the provisions signed at the convention in Paris, on the 30th of March, 1856, articles 11 and 13 in the treaty of Paris, on the 27th of April, 1856. These provisions forbid the Russian fleet entering the Dardanelles and Bosphorus from the Black Sea, and limits the Russian fleet in the Black Sea to ten small steamers. They also prohibited Russia and Turkey maintaining on the Black Sea Coast any military or marine arsenal, and generally neutralized the Black Sea, by interdiction from its waters of any vessels of war belonging to the powers possessing its coast or any other powers. This declaration, on the part of Russia, being simultaneously received in London by the cabinets at Constantinople, Berlin and Vienna, is believed here to indicate Russia's readiness to insist on the recognition of her claims by force. The official journal at Constantinople says the Sublime Porte is now able to resist any attack; that it has six hundred thousand men and twelve armored frigates.

Count Beust, the Austrian Prime Minister, arrived at Munich on the 8th, and remained there in Conference with the Bavarian cabinet two days.

A careful condensation of the reports received here by high medical authority in the British army, from all the German armies now in France, show that the aggregate deaths of the German soldiers averages 2,250 per day, which is due in a great degree to bad sanitary arrangements and neglect of the sick and wounded.

The opinion in military circles here is universal that unless the Germans can end the war before January their final defeat is inevitable.

Judge Advocate General Loughlin has resigned. He is a bankrupt.

Advices from Versailles to-day state that Moltke has ordered an additional force to be sent to Toury to prevent another disaster. An attack by the army of the Loire is expected.

The excitement in London to-night is high in political circles respecting the designs of Russia. It is believed she has a secret understanding with Prussia.

Intrigue for the Restoration of the Orleans Dynasty.

Special to the World.]

LONDON, November 12.—La Situation has a leader to-day in which it says the arrival of Schneider at London compels it to make public the fact that Gambetta is engaged in an intrigue for the restoration of the Orleans dynasty. The scheme is for the late Corps Legislatif to assemble at Tours and compel, by intimidation and the pressure of circumstances the ratification of all done since September 4th and then induce it to do away with the Republic and accept the services of the Orleans Princes. A German Princess is interested in the intrigue, although Bismarck remains faithful to the idea of the restoration of the Empire. The presence of Thiers at Tours, and the continued conferences between him and Gambetta, give additional color to this report.

The Countess de Montijo, mother of the Empress, arrived at Rouen from England, traveling incognito, and immediately left Rouen for the south.

Bushwhacking is carried on daily in Alsace and Lorraine, and Prussians are killed every night in Strasburg.

Fighting Thursday at Coulmieres.

LONDON, November 13.—Dispatches dated Tours, Friday evening, repeat the statement that there was fighting all day Thursday near Coulmieres, in which the French were successful, and that General Pallieres occupied Chevilly, north of Orleans, taking six hundred prisoners and two guns.

Prussian Column at Rethel—General Sortie Imminent at Paris.

LONDON, November 13.—A Prussian column of ten thousand men has arrived at Rethel.

Little is heard from Paris now. It is known, however, that the internal troubles have wholly subsided. Masses of French troops are seen daily around Mount Valerien, practicing evolutions on a great scale. A general sortie is imminent. Sickness in and around the capital is increasing.

A small band of Greek volunteers for the French service arrived at Marseilles and left for the field.

The report is reiterated here that the delay in the bombardment of Paris is due to the earnest entreaties of Queen Victoria.

Rupture Between Bismarck and Von Beust.

LONDON, November 12.—Rumors are rife of a rupture between Bismarck and Beust.

The North German Parliament—The German Losses.

LONDON, November 13.—The North German Parliament meets at Berlin on Monday week, to raise means for carrying on the war. A loan is proposed, but its form is not yet settled.

A Tours dispatch to the London press, dated yesterday, says: Nothing further has been made known of the movements of the French army since the recovery of Orleans and the occupation of Chevilly. The German retreat on the 9th was effected in perfect order. The loss of the Germans since the 7th amounts to ten thousand men.

General Werder is evidently moving to join Von der Tann. The bridges on this route are to be destroyed, and the roads obstructed in every possible manner.

A camp of instruction is forming at Toulouse, under General de Mayas, as a nucleus for the army of the southwest.

German Vessels Seeking Safety.

LONDON, November 13.—The Hansa and two other Hamburg steamers, have taken refuge at Grimsby.

Paris Supplies Will not Hold Out Three Weeks.

LONDON, November 13.—The special correspondent of the Tribune, writing from Versailles on the 12th, says: A party of English from Paris arrived here via Chargoton and Barveil, Mr. Wodhouse, Secretary of the English Embassy and Embassy Personnel, accompanying them. They were three days en route under wretched weather. They report that order prevails in Paris, but that food is steadily raising in price.

The special correspondent of the Tribune at Versailles on the 13th, telegraphs trustworthy information, representing that the Paris supplies will not last exceeding three weeks, and the Prussians are not likely to bombard the city.

The special correspondent of the Tribune with Garibaldi on the 9th, writes from Aulon: Michel, with 5,000 men, is on the road. As we started I asked Garibaldi if the movement to Aulon was a retreat. He replied, "certainly not."

The Prussians being at Dijon, it remains to be seen whether they mean to go from thence to Lyons or the center of France. Gambetta wishes to have us near him Monday. We are nearly as far north as Dole. He said further, that he thought the Prussians would probably occupy the department of Aurora.

Odo Russell, Assistant Under Secretary of the Foreign Office, left London for Marseilles, on a special mission from the Government.

The French Preparing to Resist the Passage of the Saone.

LONDON, November 13.—A telegram from Constantinople states that, up to this (Sunday) morning, the Turkish Government has received no notice of Russia's intention to abrogate the treaty of 1856.

Gambetta, in a dispatch to the French representative here, says the note of Gortschakoff relative to the Paris treaty of 1856 indicates an understanding between Russia and Prussia, and he expresses the opinion that England cannot remain passive in the presence of such obvious designs.

It is understood that Baron Beust is averse to a Congress of the Powers.

The French are preparing to resist the passage of the river Saone by the Germans. Garibaldi and the French Generals have agreed to a plan of operations.

FRANCE.

Details of the Recent Battle.

TOURS, November 12.—Nothing official has been heard from the army of the Loire since the report of D'Aurelles. It is asserted that Gambetta has gone to Orleans for the express purpose of hastening an attack along the enemy's lines. More prisoners captured at the battle of Orleans arrived this afternoon. They were immediately dispatched to the south of France.

The Moniteur to-day publishes more extended details of the recent battle. On the first day the battle became general. Soon after the attack was made, General Pallieres, who had command of one wing of the army, made success from the start. The Prussians were in a strong position. Gen. Pallieres took the veteran troops and stormed the Prussian position, driving them before him and capturing many prisoners. So marked was his victory that Gen. D'Palladines warmly praised his conduct. The Gardes Mobile, from the department of the Loire et Cher, who were under the heavy artillery fire of the enemy, wavered a little, but the General in command placed himself at their head and broke through the enemy's line. The Mobiles from the department of the South behaved themselves admirably, and charged the enemy with the bayonet. Chasseurs of the line also distinguished themselves.

The Moniteur has an editorial regretting that the Bavarians, who have nothing to gain in this war, but everything to lose from the grasping ambition of Prussia, should make so readily the sacrifices they have and become so firm an ally of that power. They were led into the war thinking their country would be invaded, but they must know now the republic has no such desire.

Late advices from Orleans dwell upon the enormous exactions of the Prussians, who obtained many supplies evidently not for the troops. It is also stated that many acts of extreme cruelty were committed by the Prussians in surrounding villages to terrify those suspected of harboring francs-tireurs

Last night a number of Prussians were killed at Chateau Dun by francs-tireurs.

Advices from Lyons and Marseilles announce that all is quiet in both those cities. At Marseilles the authority of Genet is generally recognized.

A dispatch from Rouen yesterday says that a force of five thousand Prussians, well supplied with cannon, entered Bonneener that day, but were driven out with loss to the gardes mobile and francs-tireurs.

Prussian Prisoners Insulted.

TOURS, November 12.—Over 1,700 Prussian prisoners, captured at and near Orleans, passed through this city to-day on their way to the south of France. Great excitement was created among the people, and it was with much difficulty that a riot was prevented. There were hundreds of people along the line of march who recognized among the prisoners those who so outraged them at Chateau Dun and other places. The prisoners were hooted at and insulted, but by the efforts of the greater portion of the crowd violence was happily prevented.

The Army of the Loire.

Cheering reports are still received from the army of the Loire. There are rumors of great advantages gained yesterday. General Von der Tann's army, notwithstanding he has been reinforced by the entire army from Chartres, is in full retreat.

Gambetta has gone to Orleans.

No Further Advance.

VERSAILLES, November 11, via BERLIN, November 12.—General Von der Tann reports to headquarters here to-day that there has been no further advance of the enemy in his front.

Enthusiasm Over Victory.

TOURS, November 12, midnight.—Gen. Pallidines reports that he took 2,500 prisoners in his last engagement. The French troops now hold the intrenched camp which was occupied by the Prussians at Arthenay. Tidings of the victory of the army of the Loire have caused the wildest excitement throughout France. Great numbers of troops are hurrying from the South to join the forces of Gen Pallidines. The use of balloons for observing the movements of the enemy are to be introduced into the army of the Loire. A considerable number of steel breech-loading cannon are ready for the armies of the Loire and the North.

On a Special Mission.

TOURS, November 12.—The Marquis De Chateaurenand has arrived at Berne. It is announced that he is coming to Tours on a special mission.

The Increasing Popularity of the French Republic.

TOURS, November 13.—Gambetta has returned to Tours. In many parts of France the people of the communes are taking votes to endorse the vote of Paris in favor of the Government of National Defense, and the municipal authorities are hastening to give their adhesion. The monarchial journals have bitter comments on these evidences of the increasing popularity of the Republic.

A dispatch from Macon reports that Schneider has sold the works of Le Creuzot to an American company and the United States flag was hoisted there.

General European Complications Imminent.

Special to the Herald.]

LONDON, November 13.—On Saturday morning a special courier arrived from St. Petersburg with dispatches to Granville, said to be of the most serious and pressing character. Dispatches were sent from the Foreign Office last night by special messengers to Vienna, Florence, Copenhagen and Constantinople. The Ministers left town yesterday but will reassemble early in the week. Many believe that the Russian fleet will be at the Dardanelles next week. Extraordinary activity exists in the army and navy departments, and general European complications seem imminent.

England's Late Attempt at Mediation—The French Loan.

A special dispatch from Berlin, of the 12th, says: Semi-official complaint has been made that England's late attempts at mediation were made simultaneously with the issue of a six per cent. French loan, and that false reports of the success of an armistice were designedly spread by the English Government organs, and hence the collusion between Granville and Thiers to help on the loan. A prominent banker here has been arrested for subscribing to the French loan, though it was proved he acted on an order from an Italian banker, who was to cover the transaction by remittances direct from Italy to London. The banker was held in custody, the authorities refusing 50,000 thalers bail.

Von Der Tann Reinforced—Position of the Contending Armies.

TOURS, November 13.—Minister Gambetta, during his absence from the city, visited Gen. Pallidines, and at his headquarters issued a proclamation to the army and made a speech to the people of Orleans. He now returns to hasten forward reinforcements. The hostile armies are now face to face, the French resting on Chevilly, with the forests and villages at their back. The Prussians are in the plains of Beaunce. General Von der Tann has been reinforced by detachments from the commands of General Willich, Prince Albrecht and the Duke of Mecklenburg, 50,000 men in all.

TOURS, Sunday night, November 13.—The French charge the Prussians with throwing wounded men from the windows of the homes at Chateau Dun and other barbarities.

The Moniteur contains a list of appointments and promotions in the army.

A circular has been sent to the Prefects of the departments with detailed instructions in regard to raising the batteries of artillery required by decree. Breech-loading cannon of a model superior to the Prussian are recommended.

The Archbishop of Tours preached a patriotic sermon to-day, urging a general rising for national defense. His words caused a profound sensation. The Archbishop of Angiers, in a circular letter, advises young clergymen to seek service as chaplains or nurses in the army, and all who have not taken orders to enlist.

Gambetta Congratulates the Army of the Loire.

TOURS, November 13.—Gambetta, in his proclamation to the army of the Loire, congratulates the soldiers on their victories of the 9th and 10th. He says: "Your courageous efforts recall victory to our cause. France owes her first ray of hope to you, and offers you the public praise and gratitude for your reward. Recovering strength with discipline, you have retaken Orleans and inaugurated a glorious offensive. You are on the road to Paris, which awaits you. Our honor hangs on your loosening the grasp of these barbarians. Redouble your constancy and ardor and you will overcome your enemy's superiority in cannon with French elan and patriotic fury, and so will the republic issue victorious from the struggle.

[Signed] "GAMBETTA."

The condition of the army is satisfactory.

Reported German Outrages.

TOURS, November 13.—The Journal Officiel charges that the Prussians pillaged Villaneune for three hours because the French troops had obstinately defended the place. They next levied enormous contributions and plundered the inhabitants unable to pay. Some of them, old men, were dragged from their houses and beaten until their neighbors surrendered their last sous to save their lives. Casks of wine were broken open and their contents poured on the ground, and the furniture in the houses destroyed.

The officers, quartered in private residences, robbed the people who lodged them of clothing, linen, watches, shoes and toilet articles, and even of women's wearing apparel. Wherever they stopped they destroyed or soiled everything. A German artillery caisson, captured near Orleans, was found filled with laces and silks, and another contained clocks, vases and rich parlor ornaments taken from the country seats around the city.

PRUSSIA.

The Armistice Negotiations.

Special to the Herald.]

BERLIN, November 12, 5:55 P. M.—The following is the text of the latest dispatches from Bismarck to the diplomatic representatives of the North German Confederation, dated Versailles, November 8: You well know that Mons. Thiers expressed a desire to be admitted to negotiate with our headquarters after having entered into communication with the different members of the government for the national defense at Tours and Paris. In compliance with orders of his Majesty, the King, I declared my willingness to grant such an interview, and Mons. Thiers was allowed first to proceed to Paris on the 30th ultimo, from whence he returned to headquarters on the 31st ultimo. The first statesman in experience in France had accepted the office of plenipotentiary of the Paris government led me to hope that proposals would be submitted to us, the acceptance of which would be possible, and in the interest of a conclusion of peace. I received M. Theirs with that respectful conduct to which his distinguished person fully entitled him. M. Theirs declared that France, induced by the desire of the neutral powers, was ready to accept an armistice. Thus His Majesty had, in the face of this declaration to consider, that every armistice in itself would bring Germany all the disadvantage connected with the prolongation of every campaign of every army which receives its provisions from distant resources. Besides this, we took upon ourselves the obligation to leave German troops which had become available by the capitulation of Metz in the positions they occupied the armistice was signed, and renounced the occupation of further territory of the enemy which might be achieved without much resistance. On the other hand France would by an armistice be enabled to develop its resources, to complete the corps now forming, and when hostilities should reopen after the armistice to oppose troops to us which do not now exist.

In spite of these considerations the desire of his majesty to take the first steps in the interests of peace prevailed, and I was empowered to make advances to M. Thiers by granting an armistice of twenty-five, or as he afterwards wanted, twenty-eight days, on a basis of simple statu quo the day of signing it. I proposed to him a line of demarkation to be agreed on to define the position of troops, to interrupt hostilities for three weeks, and to proceed to the elections for constitutional national representatives on the French side. This truce would have resulted simply in a renumeration of insignificant and always disastrous sorties and useless and incomprehensible waste of ammunition from the guns of the forts during the armistice. With regard to the elections in Alsace I was in a position to declare that we should not insist on any stipulations which would call in question the claim of France to the German departments before the conclusion of peace, and that we would not make any of the inhabitants of these parts responsible for their appearance at a French national assembly as representative of their countrymen. I was surprised at the French Plenipotentiary declaring, after proposals in which all advantages were on the part of the French, that he would accept an armistice only in the event of our agreeing to an extensive provisioning of Paris. I replied that this would include so much more of military concession than the statu quo, or anything reasonable demanded, that it would be unreasonable to expect it. I asked him if he was in position to make any military offer in return, and he replied that he was obliged to ask this concession of the provisioning of Paris without offering anything else than the readiness of the Paris government to accord the French nation the election of its representative body, which would probably constitute an authority with which it would be impossible to treat for peace in this way. I had to submit the result of the negotiation to the King and his military advisers. His majesty was surprised at these exorbitant military claims and disappointed in his expectations as to the negotiations entered into with M. Thiers. The incredible demand that we should give up the fruit of all the efforts made during the last two months, and advantages gained and bringing the situation back to the moment when the investment of Paris commenced, could but prove that in Paris they were looking for pretexts to deny the nation the election, and were not willing to give them an opportunity to carry them out without interruption.

In compliance with my desire to make another attempt to come to an understanding on another basis, Mons. Thiers had an interview on the line of outposts with members of the Paris Government on the 5th instant, to propose either armistice on the basis of statu quo for a shorter time, or the simple convening of the elections without any treaty or armistice, which could guarantee free admission and grant every facility not interfering with military safety. Regarding the substance of his interview with Messrs. Favre and Trochu, M. Thiers has not given me any approximate information. He could only tell me that the result had been the advice to break off the negotiations and leave Versailles, since an armistice with a condition of revictualing Paris was not to be attained. His departure for Tours took place on the 7th. Early in the course of the negotiations I was impressed with the conviction that the present rulers of France from the beginning, and did not since, really wish to hear the voice of the French nation in a representative body constituted by free elections, and that it has little been their intention to bring about an armistice: but that they stipulated for a concession which they knew from the first to be unacceptable, and that they only asked for these conditions in order not to give the neutral powers on whose support they count a direct refusal. I beg to request that you express yourself in accordance with the contents of this dispatch, to the reading of which you are invited. BISMARCK.

The Capture of Verdun.

BERLIN, November 12.—The official report of the capture of Verdun is published. Two Generals, eleven staff officers and fifty officers were captured. Besides these, 136 guns, 23,000 rifles and a large amount of stores and ammunition fell into the hands of the Prussians.

Will Paris be Bombarded?

BERLIN, November 12.—Dispatches from the German headquarters at Versailles announce that Paris will not be bombarded. The German authorities at Paris are convinced that the city is so illy provisioned that surrender may be expected within a month from that cause alone.

The Cross Gazette says the authorities will show no false generosity in refraining from bombarding Paris. Fire will open very soon.

Bavaria and the North German Confederation.

FRANKFORT, November 12.—Bavaria having objected to enter the North German Confederation, an agreement will be made with her by the other German states by treaty.

The Capture of New Breisach.

CARLSRUHE, November 12.—The official report of the capture of New Breisach has been made public. During the entire investment eleven Baden soldiers were killed and thirty wounded.

The Fighting at Orleans.

VERSAILLES, November 12.—General Von der Tann, on the 9th, repulsed all the enemy's attacks, with great loss to the assailants. Only then did the Germans retire. On the 10th a portion of the Bavarian ammunition train, losing its way, fell into the hands of the French. No movements are reported to-day. Absolute quiet prevails around Paris.

The Treaties with the South German States.

BERLIN, November 13.—It is semi-officially stated that the treaties with the South German States concede enlarged federal powers. The King of Bavaria has been invited to visit Versailles.

Youthful Robbers of Railroad Cars Held for Trial—Interest in the Contemplated Railroad—Schools—Regret at the Retirement of Gen. Cox.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WOOSTER, O., November 12, 1870.

The trial of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway robbers took place yesterday before J. T. Henry, Esq., and resulted in George Hamilton and Richard Lee being bound over to the Common Pleas Court in $500 bail. The Court commences on Monday, November 21st. Lee was bailed to-day; Hamilton is still in jail. Charles, alias Skipper Rice, who received a portion of the stolen goods, turned State's evidence, and was acquitted. About $150 worth of the property was recovered from the prisoners, and consisted of silver-plated ware, which was being shipped by freight to Mr. Hoffman, a merchant of Bucyrus. Both Hamilton and Lee are under eighteen years of age, and are of respectable families of Wooster.

Special correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

WOOSTER, OHIO, November 10, 1870.

A few items from our growing city may not be uninteresting to your Ohio readers. Wooster is now very much excited and aroused on the subject of the contemplated railroad. The people are subscribing largely—already over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars—and if money can secure the road, there will be no doubt of the result. Judge Welker, our Congressman, is vigorously at work in this matter. If energy and perseverance are the qualities necessary for a successful prosecution of the project, then Judge Welker is the right man in the right place. Our city is not so ambitious as some of Ohio towns, else two or three railroads would have had their headquarters here long ago.

In schools, we are not behind the age. The Union school is a large and commodious edifice—one of the very best of the kind in Ohio. The University is a gem—students from all quarters are flocking to its halls.

The annual reunion of the Fourth Ohio Regiment, last evening, was a very pleasant affair. Nearly every company of the regiment was represented. Letters were read from Generals Hancock and Meade, regretting their inability to be present. The supper at the American Hotel was fair. Afterward the boys and girls spent the time until the "wee sma hours" in merry dancing.

In common with all well disposed people, we regret the cause which compelled General Cox to retire from President Grant's Cabinet. There is on the part of every shade of political partisanship an earnest and a mighty demand for retrenchment and reform in the civil service. R.

Schenck and the English Mission.

No Confirmation of the Report that It has been Offered to Him—List of Those to Whom the Position has been Offered—Consolidation of Revenue Districts—Great Saving Effected Thereby—Intimidation of Colored Voters in Alabama—Import of Grant's Visit to Philadelphia—In Consultation with the Winnebago Chief Regarding Cabinet Changes—Creswell to be Ousted Next—Russia Abrogates the Treaty of 1856—A Great Flutter Among the McGarrahan Lobby, &c., &c.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, November 12, 1870.

The English Mission.

The friends of General Schenck here can obtain no definite confirmation of the report that he has been tendered the English mission, but still the belief is very general that the report is true. The following names are furnished from a quarter that should be accurately informed, as those of gentlemen to whom this mission has thus far been offered: Senator Frelinghuysen, Senator Morrill, of Maine, President White, of Cornell University, Senators Trumbull, Howe, Edmunds, and Morton.

Consolidation of Revenue Districts.

The question of consolidating the Revenue Department is before the President for final decision. The outlines of the changes deemed best for the interest of the service have been indicated by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The decision involves so many questions concerning the relief and transfer of officers that more time will be consumed at the White House than was at first expected, and the order announcing the consolidation may be delayed for some weeks. The estimate of reduction in the expense of collecting the revenue by the contemplated changes places it at one-third.

Intimidation of Colored Voters.

Alabama Republicans here account for the Democratic gain in that State by the fact that the Republican vote polled was far below its strength, colored voters being intimidated by threats of discharge from their employers. Although the election was nominally peaceable, every possible means of intimidation was adopted by the Democracy. In the Fourth District, where the Republican majority is over fifteen thousand, hardly half the Republican vote was polled. It is alleged also that opposition to certain railroad schemes largely affected the success of Governor Smith, the Republican candidate. There is no doubt, however, that there is a Republican majority in the Legislature on joint ballot.

Grant's Visit to Philadelphia.

The friends of Senator Cameron assert positively that the President's visit to Philadelphia is for the purpose of consultation concerning changes in the Cabinet and Bureau officers. A partial corroboration of this story is found in the fact that gentlemen went over from New York to meet him, who had already visited him here, to advise an entire reconstruction of the Cabinet. There is no doubt that Pennsylvanians are now fighting for Mr. Cresswell's place, upon the ground that there is any hope of Maryland having a Republican majority in 1872.

Russia Abrogates the Treaty of 1856

The Secretary of State last night received a dispatch from Vienna, saying that Austria had been officially notified that Russia would no longer observe the treaty of 1856, touching the neutrality of the Black Sea. This is construed as notice of a speedy advance on the part of Russia towards Constantinople.

Flutter Among the McGarrahan Lobby.

The stir caused by the President's publication about the McGarrahan case has brought quite a squad of attorneys to light. Among them Mr. Clinton Rice, of this city, well known in connection with the lobby, is becoming prominent. There has been much inquiry for the one who offered the $20,000 bribe. All that can be learned is that the McGarrahan men have ascertained and abused the man in unmeasured terms for being foolish enough to put anything in writing. Their great anxiety now appears to be to devise some safe way of discrediting the documents to which the Secretary alluded.

THE NEW FRENCH MINISTER.

Mr. Treilhard, shortly after his arrival in New York, yesterday, telegraphed the fact to Washington and made inquiry, depending on the answer to govern his future movements. It is known that this gentleman was appointed by Napoleon as the successor of Minister Berthemy, but that he has received no indorsement by either the Paris or Tours government. Under these circumstances Treilhard has been informed that he will not be received in a diplomatic capacity by the Government. M. Berthemy will, therefore, continue as the representative of France until relieved by the proper authorities, although it has long been his desire to return to France to rejoin his family.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, November 13, 1870.

CHANGE IN THE CUSTOM HOUSE.

The rumor that a new collector of customs is soon to be appointed was contradicted by Mr. Murphy yesterday; but it is as explicitly asserted by parties supposed to be well-informed, accompanied by the further statement that Judge Robertson, of Westchester county, will be Mr. Murphy's successor.

FERNANDO WOOD WILL NOT IMPEACH WOODRUFF.

Fernando Wood denies the report that he is preparing articles of impeachment against Judge Woodruff.

APPOINTMENT.

Hon. Michael J. Shandley has been appointed to the vacant police commissionership.

WOODS ON FIRE ON LONG ISLAND SHORE.

The report published in the Herald that a large steamer was seen on fire last night on Long Island Sound, proves incorrect. The flames seen were those of a burning wood on Long Island shore.

THE "BELT LINE" STRIKE.

The strike on the "Belt Line" continues, and immense crowds of sympathizers line the avenue on the route of the cars. There are policemen on every car to protect the drivers. Talvy, an officer, was severely wounded in the eye by a stone thrown by one of the malcontents. Captain Cameron and a large force are on the watch, fearing a general mele.

TWO BOYS SHOT BY A SCAVENGER.

Two boys, named James McNulty and Jos. McCracken, were shot last night by Conrad Doll, a scavenger. Both are supposed to be fatally wounded. Doll had a week previous beaten one of the boys unmercifully with a club.

ARRIVED.

The German steamer Hermann, from Bremen.

* * *

In the case of Mattie Batham, on trial at Wheeling for the killing of William J. McNash, who had betrayed and deserted her, the jury on Saturday returned a verdict of "not guilty." And her counsel didn't put in a plea of insanity, either. Miss Batham received the verdict with tears of joy, while ladies waved their handkerchiefs and men threw up their hats and cheered.

The Italian Elections.

The World's special correspondent telegraphs from Florence on the 17th that the canvass for the general election of the Italian Parliament is proceeding throughout the country with great animation. The clerical party are actively at work, especially in the Southern Provinces, on behalf of the candidates with the ultramontane principles, and where they are unable to elect candidates of their own they are giving their support secretly to candidates of the most violent Republicans, on the theory of alarming the Conservatives by returning the Reds.

A Denial—The Roman Question.

FLORENCE, November 12.—The Independecia denies the existence of any letter in which Thiers informs the Pope of steps taken by France in his favor.

At a patriotic banquet, given at Milan on Friday evening, the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs spoke at length on the Roman question. He pledged the government to the introduction of all kinds of liberty, especially religious liberty. He affirmed that the relations of the government with the Pope were not unfriendly.

The Extremists objected to the moderation of the government because it deprived them of their political cry that the independence of the Pope should be disregarded. Extremists of another class urge the necessity of conciliation, and feared the government might go too far. The task of the government was to satisfy Europe and preserve the dignity of the Pope. This done, the relations with the Holy See could not fail to continue friendly. He concluded with an appeal in favor of conciliation, administrative reform and spiritual fidelity to the Pope.

They provoked a fight with the townspeople, which soon became hot. They were shortly reinforced by a party of comrades, and the mob of people also increased. A scene of indiscriminate violence followed, and was only stopped by the interference of a strong body of police. Several soldiers, policemen and citizens were badly injured, but no deaths are reported. All the soldiers are under arrest.

A fire broke out at two o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Home for Orphans (Catholic), on Plum street, Cincinnati, in charge of the Franciscan Brothers, which created considerable anxiety, both for the safety of the inmates and of the buildings. The children, one hundred and fourteen in number, were removed without any one being hurt, and the flames extinguished without serious loss save by water. The damage is about four thousand dollars.

The Universalists of Cincinnati continued their centennial services throughout yesterday. An able discourse was delivered by Rev. Asa Saxe, General Secretary of the General Convention of Universalists, in the morning, after which seven thousand three hundred dollars were raised for Buchtel College, to be erected under the auspices of this denomination, at Akron, O. The amount will be increased to about nine thousand dollars—a liberal response from the single church of Cincinnati.

The publication of the President's Long Branch letter to Ex-Secretary Cox has called universal attention to Commissioner Wilson, of the Land Office, whom the President directs shall not be trusted. Commissioner Wilson has occupied his position for forty years, being retained on account of his intimate acquaintance with all the wonderfully confused land accounts of the Government. He has always been believed to be honest and faithful, and it is remarked that he has remained poor notwithstanding all his chances to trade in his office. He is expected to resign on account of General Grant's letter, but says the President may dismiss him if he thinks best.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The Letter of the Professors of Yale College to Secretary Cox

NEW HAVEN, CONN., November 4, 1870.

Hon. J. D. Cox:

SIR: As a public servant retiring from a most important office in the government of the United States, you have a right to know whether your fellow citizens approve the manner in which you have administered your trust, and your reasons for resigning it. We, therefore, as citizens of the United States, though most of us are personally unknown to you, may properly address you on the occasion of your retirement from the place you have held in the national government. For ourselves only, and not in any representative character, yet confident that we express the thought and feeling of thousands who like ourselves are habitually observant of public affairs, we say to you, well done! We approve most heartily the policy which you have labored to introduce into the Department of the Interior; and with the same heartiness we approve your determination to retire from that department when you found yourself obstructed in prosecuting the great reformation to which you had committed yourself. You carry with you in your retirement from office, the warm approval and the best wishes of thousands of patriotic men, who have no interest in politics other than their interest as citizens in the well being and doing of the republic. In our judgment, no question now pending is more important to the future well being and well doing of the republic than the question of that reformation which you have attempted in the Department of the Interior, and which ought to be carried uncompromisingly through the entire civil service of the country. The question whether all offices in the gift of the President and of the heads of departments shall be distributed as "spoils" by one partnership of men who trade in politics or by another—perhaps a little less corrupt and perhaps a little more—when it becomes as it sometimes does become, the only question between two great political parties, is insignificant in comparison with the question whether the business of the Government shall be conducted on business principles, or on principles that would bring any business man to bankruptcy in a twelvemonth. This question of reforming the manner of appointments and the tenure of office in the civil service is really nothing less than the question whether the people shall be served or ruled—served by competent and experienced men, or ruled by party managers and political tricksters. The laying of assessments on office-holders, enforced by threats of dismissal from office, is nothing else than compelling men to purchase their offices with bribes. While we regret the circumstance which induced you to resign your office, we are confident that the cause with which you are thus honorably identified will prevail, and that the honest and patriotic people will soon take this question out of the hands of political managers, and save the country by demanding a thorough reform of the civil service.

General Cox replies as follows to this address:

I should be wholly lacking in sensibility if I were not deeply moved by the expression of your approval of my public conduct, contained in your letter of the 4th instant. Commendation from such a source has a weight and an authority that may well be accepted as the judgment of the most intelligent public sentiment upon the necessity for that reform in the civil service of the country, with which I have accidentally become more prominently identified than I could rightly claim to be.

Your letter is the most noteworthy proof that the people of the country are conscious of the need of a rigid application to the same principles for the conduct of public business that careful men would apply to their private affairs; and my own experience in office is simply part of the evidence of the entire practicability of such an application. My most earnest hope is that the attention which has been called to the subject will prove to have hastened the day when the civil service shall be separated from the demoralizing influence of a mere political strife for place.

THE Day and the Evening Telegraph of Philadelphia can also be counted upon as journals favoring a revision of the State Constitution. The Telegraph cites the example of other States in proof of the power of a convention to make the needed reforms, and well says: "Ohio, by a constitutional prohibition of special legislation, disposes by one blow of the standing nuisance of Harrisburg. New England, by sending a much larger number of representatives, relatively; to her State Legislature, secures at once an intelligent consideration of general instead of private questions, greater economy, and an avoidance of corruption. Illinois, by a provision in her new constitution, makes the State more powerful than any corporation it has created. But Pennsylvania, meanwhile, has suffered rings and corruptionists to discover all the weak places in her Constitution, and to run her government, not in accordance with its best provisions, but in the most ludicrous, infamous, ineffective and disgraceful manner that is tolerated by its laches. As no chain can be stronger than its weakest links, so a government exposed to the misinterpretations and rascalities of depraved politicians becomes fearfully inefficient through the absence of safeguards against all their infamous devices, and Pennsylvania is suffering so keenly to-day from the absence of such checks that a Constitutional Convention has become an absolute necessity."

* * *

THE Philadelphia North American, noting that the Southern States have gained in population since 1860, speaks as follows upon a subject of immense interest to Pittsburgh: West Virginia, which now appears for the first time in a distinct census of her population, seems to have progressed handsomely since she cut loose from the Old Dominion, and now has nearly as much population as Arkansas or Minnesota. Her great need is of railway communications more intimately with Pennsylvania, and if the Pittsburgh and Charleston Railroad could be built at once, it would carry down into the heart of West Virginia an increasing stream of hardy and industrious emigration from the Northern States and from Europe that would speedily develope the mineral and agricultural resources of the State. Pittsburgh seems to be in earnest in this enterprise, and, as it is backed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, there is no reason to doubt of its success.

* * *

THE Washington reporters now have it that the President did not offer the appointment of Commissioner of Patents to Mr. Bakewell, but merely permitted Commissioner Fisher to write to him informally about the matter. The New York Times' dispatch says that the policy of appointing a prominent patent lawyer to this position, although resulting favorably to the public service in the case of Judge Fisher, is believed by many to be an unsafe practice, and is strongly opposed by the class known as patent attorneys. It will probably not be repeated.

A large number of small furnaces were started during the past year in the base metal district of Nevada, from which encouraging reports were anticipated. But these small smelting works have not been profitable, and most of them are now idle.

CITY MATTERS.

LIGHT GUARD FAIR.—City Hall. Musical Turk, Picket Guard and Sheridan's Ride. To-night.

COLLISION.—Two carriages collided at the corner of Fourteenth and Penn streets last evening, and a man named Wagner was thrown from one of the vehicles and quite seriously bruised.

CHURCH DEDICATED.—The new Catholic Church at Hazlewood was dedicated by Bishop Domenec yesterday. The Catholic clergy participated in the ceremonies, which were quite imposing. Large delegations from different points along the Connellsville Railroad were present.

AN INSANE MAN.—A man named Wm Stapleton was yesterday sent from the Workhouse to Deputy Mayor Nichols's office. It appears that the man was some time ago committed to the Workhouse for disorderly conduct. After he was received at that place it was discovered that he was insane. He was last evening sent to the Central Station House and will probably be sent to Dixmont. The unfortunate man is an Irishman and imagines himself to be at the head of a Fenian army.

INTERFERING WITH AN OFFICER.—Yesterday afternoon a row occurred at the corner of Webster avenue and High street, between two well-known pugilists. Officer Keeter attempted to arrest one of the men, named William Cline. Joseph Kennedy and William McGee interfered and tried to rescue the prisoner. Reinforcements soon after arrived, and the two "resisters" were taken to the lock-up and required to leave $50 for their appearance this morning.

DIXMONT HOSPITAL.

Alleged Ill Treatment of a Patient.

The Sunday Leader of yesterday contains an article which makes serious charges against the Dixmont Hospital, and asks an investigation by the Board of Managers. If the statements made in the article referred to are true, the case is of a very serious character. The Leader says that Mrs. Vick, a lady residing on Second avenue, between Smithfield street and Grant, has a sister, Miss Eliza Jane McCartney, who from childhood has been afflicted with a species of epilepsy, which subjects her to intervals of temporary insanity. Having had a disposition to violence on the approach of these fits, Miss McCartney, it was thought by her friends, would be safer in an asylum than at home, and, accordingly, in April, 1869, they applied to the courts and obtained an order for her admission—intending to take her out and take care of her themselves, whenever her health would permit. In the following August they took her out; but in July last deemed it wise to send her back again. She remained at the asylum on this second occasion until September, when, as they allege, they were compelled to bring her out once more, in consequence of being refused permission to see her when they called, or to obtain satisfactory information as to her condition. Mrs. Vick now charges that during her sister's confinement she was grossly neglected and at times cruelly treated; that when she was taken from the hospital the second time she brought a large quantity of vermin with her, as in the case of Haffelfinger; that she was obliged to sleep on the floor at nights until rats and mice ran over her face; that when her relatives called at Dixmont to inquire after her, they were treated with the most marked discourtesy; and finally that the officers refused to return an account for numerous articles of wearing apparel which she carried into the institution.

Mrs. Vick states that she would have been present at the late investigation to give her testimony had she known it was coming off, but not hearing of it until after it was over, she desired to have it laid before the public and the Board of Directors, and for that reason desired to have it published. The Leader also reports an interview with Mrs. Vick, which corroborates the above statement.

A FRAUDULENT MARRIAGE.

Divorce Asked For—The Facts as Alleged in the Petition of Complainant.

In the Court of Common Pleas on Saturday last, Judges Sterrett, Stowe and Collier on the bench, Mr. Parker, attorney for Charles B. Crawford, presented a petition which he asked to be filed, praying to be divorced from Jane S. Crawford, his wife. The libel represents that on the 18th of August an alleged marriage was celebrated between the petitioner and one Jane S. McSpadden, in the city of Pittsburgh; that said alleged marriage was procured by fraud on the part of the said Jane, in this that she represented, prior to and at the date of the alleged marriage, that she was a virtuous woman; and the petitioner believing said representations, and at the time not knowing them to be false, entered into the bonds of matrimony with the said Jane. Subsequently, as the petition goes on to allege, Crawford ascertained that her representations about her virtue were false and that she was then with child. On learning of this discovery, she left Crawford's house. It seems her seducer resides in Allegheny city. By various arts and devices she concealed her condition from Crawford until the 10th of October last, when the discovery was made, as above stated. The Court ordered a subpœna to issue, returnable on the first Monday of March, 1871. The case will no doubt develop some singular facts.

Enticed Away from Home.

We take the following from the Louisville Courier-Journal: "A young lad named Daniel Alvin Stake was enticed away from his home in New Albany last April by a blind man, an itinerant vender of poetry. His mother, a distressed widow, has heard from him but once since, at which time he was at Pittsburgh. She is very anxious to hear from him. Papers along the upper Ohio will please notice."

[We occasionally notice a blind man traveling on our railroads selling poetry, who is accompanied by a small boy, twelve or fourteen years old, perhaps. We do not know the names of either, but we would not take the lad to be the son of the blind man in question; and it may be possible, it is the boy Stake, for whom the distressed mother anxiously seeks.—REPORTER.]

ARMSTRONG COUNTY COURT TO BE HELD BY JUDGE KIRKPATRICK.—Judge Buffington, of Armstrong county, being quite ill for some time past, his physicians aver that nothing but perfect rest and quiet will accomplish his restoration to health. On Monday next a session of the court of that county will be held at Kittanning, lasting for two weeks, Hon. John M. Kirkpatrick, Judge of the District Court of this county having been appointed to hold the Court, the subsequent term of his Court at Kittanning, if he continues still unwell, it is expected will be held by Judge Sterrett, of our Common Pleas. Judge Buffington's Judicial District comprises the counties of Armstrong, Indiana and Westmoreland, and is a very large and laborious one.

Y. M. C. A.—ANNIVERSARY MEETING.—The Anniversary Meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held at Library Hall to-morrow (Tuesday) evening. The annual meetings of this association are always interesting, and this one will be especially so. Addresses will be delivered by H. Thane Miller, of Cincinnati, General James Beaver, of this State, H. K. Porter, and others. The music will be furnished by the choir of Christ Church. No admission will be charged and seats may be secured free at the rooms of the Association, corner of Penn and St. Clair, on Monday and Tuesday afternoons.

Steinway Sales—Bulletin No. 10.

The Steinway sales for the last eight days comprise the following: Miss Kate L. Dotey, Steubenville, a Steinway concert grand; Geo. N. Armstrong, Esq., a Steinway square grand; Miss McCook, a Steinway square piano; Mrs. Dr. Mabon, a Steinway square; Rev. M. Wishart, a Steinway square, etc. The popularity enjoyed by the Steinway's has no equal in the history of the Piano Forte. Not less than three thousand pianos of all descriptions are yearly turned out by the firm, and, yet, the demand is ever ahead of the supply. The Steinway Pianos have a tone of such peculiar depth and richness that they can readily be distinguished from all other pianos as far as the sound will reach the ear. The store of the Steinway agents, H. Kleber & Bro., presents a scene of busy excitement what with the never-ceasing packing and unpacking of the Steinway Pianos.

Cherry Pectoral Troches,

For coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma and all bronchial and throat difficulties are prepared by the old and popular druggists, Rushton & Co., of New York, who have disposed their medicines to the elite of that city for upwards of forty years. They are as pleasant to take as the nicest confections, having none of that nauseating, offensive cubeb taste so common to most others, acting upon the throat and lungs like a charm, removing all irritation, affording immediate relief. Let none fail to try them. The great favor with which they have been received by the home trade has induced them to introduce them generally through the country. Ask your druggist for them; anyone will furnish you. †

NATURE originates, art copies and improves. For instance, potato parings and slops, after becoming food for faithful old cow, are converted, by a process peculiar to natives, into pure rich milk, indispensable in our family arrangements. Prime barley and hops, by a process peculiar to Pier, Dannals & Co.'s art, are converted into pure and delicious cream ale, which is fast becoming almost as indispensable to our comfort as nature's production, cited above. †

Messrs S. D. & H. W. SMITH,
MANUFACTURERS OF THE American Organ,

Would inform the public that, while they are endeavoring with the best right they have to sustain the reputation of their instruments, and to make them in every way more attractive, they

DID NOT INVENT

The Pipes of Pan, not even the Jewsharp; nor did they serve an apprenticeship with Tubal Cain, "instructor of every artificer in brass and iron."

They have, however, "voiced" organ reeds, with a nicety that others have been glad to imitate, not equal, for a great many years, and long before any rival firm in this part of the world had puzzled over the process.

The fortunate person that has in late years "invented" the "voicing" of reeds, as has been absurdly claimed, must have accomplished a feat like that of the witty "Autocrat," who, in speaking of picturesque and out-of-the way nooks in Boston, says that he was the original discoverer of Mystic street.

Although the Messrs. Smith have no

PATENTED NOVELTIES

To offer, they beg leave to state that they, MANY YEARS AGO, originated the "IMPROVED TRUE BOARD" and "RESONANT AIR CHAMBER," now pressed into service as "novelties" elsewhere.

The value of these improvements is now fully attested by the efforts of others to filch the credit.

Every essential element of the Reed Organ is now open to the use of every builder. There is no secret, nor mystery—nothing but thorough, intelligent, artistic work. "Patented improvements" are "springes to catch woodcocks."

The American Organ contains all the valuable features thus far combined in reed instruments.

Having the longest experience of any Eastern House, and possessing unsurpassed advantages for manufacture, the Messrs. Smith solicit the most rigid comparison in regard to Tone, Solidity of Construction and External Elegance.

Desirous of meeting the popular demand for a Good Instrument at a LOW PRICE, they have made a few NEW STYLES, with all solid excellences and in cases of

New and Tasteful Designs,

At Prices ranging from $100 to $300.

These Instruments cannot be surpassed by any of their class either in quality or beauty.

, An elegantly Illustrated Circular, containing descriptions and prices of over thirty styles, will be sent post-paid, on application.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1870.

It it estimated that the reduction in the expenses of collecting the revenues, by the proposed consolidation of districts and relief of officers not needed, will amount to about one-third. This will be a great saving, and will justify a further reduction in taxation.

THE London Examiner rejoices over the appointment of General SCHENCK as Minister to England, and calls for the immediate settlement of the Alabama claims. It is difficult to imagine what authority there may be in London for announcing General SCHENCK's appointment, but at present writing the subject seems to be in great uncertainty at Washington.

THE scheme to give Ireland a federal parliament to have control of all local affairs and to be similar to the Canadian Dominion Parliament, is gaining support from people who have hitherto held the most opposite political views. Is it in view of this that Fenianism seems to be dead? Certainly it appears probable that this scheme offers the most feasible plan yet proposed to secure to Ireland the peace and prosperity that she has needed so long.

IN another column will be found the annual report of the Allegheny Relief Society, an organization of ladies, whose active benevolence on behalf of the poor and the unfortunate has been the means of relieving and preventing a vast amount of suffering and misery. We learn from the Secretary, Mrs. HENRY H. FORSYTH, that this publication is made, not so much for the purpose of showing what has been done in the past, as to remind the generous supporters of the Society of what is expected of them in the immediate future. A brief but earnest appeal is made for help, to enable the ladies to continue their benevolent work during the coming winter. We commend the subject to the favorable consideration of those who have the means and the disposition to aid in relieving the necessities of our worthy poor.

THE Turcos, of whom we have heard so much since the present war began, though Mohammedans, appear to be deficient in orthodox hatred of Kafirs or infidels. In Ulm, where three hundred of them are confined as prisoners, they were lately visited by one Herr LOWITZ, who had been for a long time a missionary or a chaplain in Algiers, and had become familiar with the Arabic language. Desiring to hold a religious service with the Turcos, they were called together for the purpose, when a maulwi or clergyman of their own faith, stepped forward first with his Koran, from which he read chapter after chapter, apparently for the purpose of wearing out the patience of the visitor and preventing him from preaching. He mistook his congregation, however, as at least they told him he had read enough. Then, Mr. LOWITZ taking the Koran, read the first chapter, requiring the Turcos to repeat each sentence after him. As he afterwards discoursed to them, they often bowed their heads, exclaiming, "It is true! it is true!" At the end of his discourse he prayed, when the Turcos gathered around him and kissed his hand, a symbolical act, by which they said, "Thou art sent to us from God." These Turcos, who were at first regarded with so much disgust, appear to have become quite popular in Germany. The fact is, they are more amiable and appear to more advantage as prisoners than as soldiers.

THE COLORED VOTE.

Now that the recent elections have shown the negroes to be everywhere and universally enlisted under the Republican banner, adding largely to Republican majorities and prestige by a fealty that is staunch as it is conspicuous, we expect to see Democratic speakers and writers wrought up to a new pitch of exasperation, and to find them ransacking the vocabulary of execration for epithets sufficiently acrimonious to express their sense of outrage over and abhorrence for the policy that transformed chattels into men, slaves into freedmen, freedmen into citizens, citizens into voters. Democratic stump speakers and Democratic knights of the ink-bottle have had so much to say about kinky wool, flop ears, flat noses, blubber lips, ebo shins, splay feet and aromatic odor, that they find it extremely difficult to regard the negro as possessing the same perceptions, passions, propensities, motives and ambitions which actuate white men. It is true, when, against Democratic advice, remonstrance and protest, colored citizens were armed with the ballot for their protection, and as a measure of ever-handed justice, Democratic politicians did not hesitate to woo the affiliation of the new-made voters; but this was merely an exhibition of that cunning complaisance for which candidates, time out of mind, have been famous in canvassing for support. However, this foxy expenditure of blandishment proved a very sour-grapes investment. The chances of catching colored votes with soft words were soon discovered to be exactly equal to the chances of chances birds by sprinkling salt on their tails; and the baffled and enraged heroes of the mass meeting returned to their oratoric bombardment, and the experts of the quill to their pen-and-ink denunciation of the Fifteenth Amendment—its authors, its advocates, its sympathizers, its ratifiers—in regular slam-bang style of wordiness.

As, at each succeeding election, the natural attachment of the colored people for the party which delivered them from the lash and the auction-block, from compulsory ignorance and all the shackles of degradation, is gladly and gratefully manifested in substantial support at the ballot-box, we may expect an ever-recurring repetition of these Democratic explosions of vindictive resentment. Contempt, says the proverb, penetrates even the shell of the tortoise; and the contempt which the negroes have everywhere and universally exhibited for the insincere overtures of the Democratic leaders, intent only upon making convenient tools of a victim race, has pierced the Democratic soul through and through. One of its results is seen in the growing openness with which the Bourbonic press attacks the validity of the reconstruction measures, and fulminates against the legitimacy of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. Threats are freely made of what will be done when the Democratic party shall have obtained possession of the Government once more; and our colored citizens are given unmistakably to understand that their newly conferred franchises would not be worth an hour's purchase in the hands of a Democratic Congress.

No wonder the negroes cling so tenaciously to the Republican organization as the only bulwark of their safety and welfare. Its continuance in power is the only guarantee they have that their rights will be respected—that a new crusade against their political privileges will not be organized and unsparingly prosecuted. To them, Republican platforms have a significance which other eyes do not so clearly perceive, and which is intensified by the broad contrast between the hideous memories of the past and the ennobling fruition of the present. They have a very feeling recollection of Democratic rule. If, for a moment, the enticing blandishments of Democratic overtures should tempt them to forget its meaning, they have but to recur to the black laws of the North, and to the slave-pens, auction-blocks, overseer's lash, and all the frightful paraphernalia of chattelism in the South. So long as the credo of the Democracy is what we find it in their numerous State platforms, they will do well, in their efforts to catch colored votes, to ponder the Scripture proverb: "Surely in vain is the net spread in sight of any bird."

Such a spectacle as a negro, born either free or slave, who is a Democratic voter, is an anomaly in the land. Almost every one of the 800,000 that have been made electors is ranged under the banner of the Republican party. In its ranks he is an enthusiastic and resolute volunteer, not a discouraged and grudging conscript. He has a personal stake in its victories, and much to lose by its defeats. He is always found at his post—on the march, at the bivouac, in the fore front of battle. From the bitterness of long experience he fully comprehends the nature of the foe against which he is arrayed. Though it may approach him with the smile of conciliation upon its lips, he does not fail to perceive the frown of defiance upon its brow. If it proffers the olive branch of peace in one hand, he discovers the hostile javelin uplifted in the other, ready to be hurled in furious assault. If it opens its mouth with protestations of good will and amity, he sees the faculties and inclinations of turbulent antagonism blazing in its eyes. His every instinct and experiment tells him there is danger in dalliance or treaty with the Democracy. He will never be voter of theirs. In every nook and corner of this broad land the Republican party will be able to count confidently upon the substantial assistance and unswerving attachment of the colored men, whose cyclopean energies will enter with overwhelming force into the Presidential campaign of 1872.

SHOULD Miss LOUISA MUHLBACH live ten or a dozen years longer, she will, no doubt, feel herself sufficiently removed in time from the great struggles between France and Germany to think it an appropriate subject for one of her historical romances, or romantic histories. Probably the lady is even now carefully garnering up anecdotes and other material for one or more works of the kind. The old King we may reasonably fancy indifferent to the figure he is destined to make in the romance. But BISMARCK is a novel-reader, and longed for a French novel on the battle-field of Sadowa, when the fighting was hardly over, as we learn from a letter of his to his wife, published in his memoirs. FRITZ also, doubtless, reads novels, and has heard of MUHLBACH. Now, we wonder if these men ever think how their dislike of each other will be represented in that great Muhlbachian romance of the future; what stormy scenes in which they are the principal figures will be described with the utmost minuteness of detail, and how their intrigues against each other will be made to extend over the entire distance from Berlin to Paris, and to fill hundreds of printed pages. And yet, perhaps, the only foundation in fact for the entire superstructure of fiction will be the incident at Versailles a few days ago, described by the Tribune correspondent. The eighteenth of October was the Crown Prince's birthday, when all entitled to the privilege called to congratulate him. The correspondent says:

> Herr Von Bismarck then came in, and, strange to say, did not even speak to the Prince, still less shake hands with him. Just after Bismarck went away—and he did not stay five minutes—the Crown Prince made a joke seemingly being much relieved by the departure of the Chancellor. (It is no secret that the heir to the throne and the great Minister detest each other most cordially.) Soon after that we all moved off, Moltke and a few of the Generals remaining to lunch. As we rode away we met the King driving down to wish his son and heir many happy returns of the day. An officer who was present has since told me that on entering, the King, after heartily congratulating his son on his victories and his good generalship, asked him what he could give him for a birthday present. "Your Majesty," was the answer, "can give me one present better than all others—Peace." The King, it is said, looked rather taken aback, but answered at once, "Well, well, Fritz, wait a few days, and I may be able to give you what you want—in Paris."

Gossip to which perhaps no importance needs be attached represents the Chancellor and the Prince as differing on the subject of peace; the latter favoring much milder terms than the former is willing to support. Other reasons, however, are assigned for the quarrel, if a quarrel it is.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

A Biddiford, Me., women wanted a man to control her property and advertised for a husband last July. She got him, but two months later, Lothario departed, taking with him government bonds to the amount of $10,000; since when divers friends, who started in hot pursuit have assertained that the doctor had two wives already, and was yet to wed a down East damsel.

The London Record is informed that the new testament revisionists have voted that the true translation of our Lord's Prayer is "Deliver us from the evil one."

In a case of adultery, lately tried in Kurrachee, India, the Mohammedan law of divorce was explained as consisting of the simple plan of the husband repeating three times, "You are divorced." This saves all the complicated machinery of a divorce court, but the wife is not allowed to avail herself of the same three talismanic words.

Boston voters viewed with astonishment two women distributing votes at two of the polls in that city on election day.

One-half the sugar mills of Louisiana are at work, and it is said the yield of sugar will be larger than that of the past year, in spite of the bad effect of the drought upon the cane.

Wyoming territory, by the corrected census returns, has 9,115 population, exclusive of Indian and Dakota, 14,021.

The 116 pound nugget of apparently pure copper recently picked up in Cedar township, Monroe county, Iowa, is now declared to be an aerolite.

The Vinton, Iowa, Eagle says: "Some twelve or thirteen years ago, when many counties were voting railroad bonds, the County Judge of this county, was about issuing $150,000 of bonds for a similar purpose, when Mr. A. D. Stephens, after a protracted litigation, in which he claims to have spent $1,200 or $1,500, procured an injunction to restrain the issue. Considering the trouble in which other counties, such as Lee, Muscatine, Johnson and Iowa, have been involved in similar issues, Mr. Stephens claims to have saved $150,000, and he considers the interist on that amount for about twelve years as justly due him, which claim he presented to the Board, but the Board couldn't 'see it.' Mr. Stephens is willing to compromise for $50,000."

Yale class day is transferred to commencement week, and commencement is to be earlier, taking place on the second Thursday in July, instead of the third as heretofore.

There is an elegant brick house in Portsmouth, N. H., which cost $100,000. It is surrounded by an iron fence, but the owner, who died some time since, never would make up his mind as to the design of his gate. For several years the stone posts have been hung with peices of rope holding an old ladder, and the widow, who desires to follow out her late husband's wishes, renews the ladders as they get broken, and keeps up the plan of the departed.

The pastors of the fashionable churches in New York City, it is stated, receive salaries of from $6,000 to $7,000, with comfortable parsonages. The salaries and perquisites of these clergymen, it is stated, amount to $10,000 in gold. From this handsome compensation clerical salaries decline to the wages received by the city missionaries, who are paid about $800 per annum.

The Connecticut papers are talking about having their system of legislative apportionment reconstructed. At present, Litchfield county, with a population of 48,732, has forty representatives, while the city of New Haven, with 50,000 inhabitants, has but two, and New Haven county, with 121,372, has but thirty. Hartford county has five times the population and eight times the taxable property of Tolland county, but has only twice as many representatives. Hartford itself, with 15,000 more inhabitants than Tolland county, has only two representatives, while the latter has twenty-one. Similar inequalities prevail elsewhere, and the entire system seems to be viciously unjust.

Last Thursday a small crop of late strawberries was picked near New York—an unusual occurrence for November.

The New York Third Avenue Railroad does the largest business of any in the city. The company has 175 cars running, which, at the busiest hours of the twenty-four start every forty-five seconds. The receipts for the past year were $1,411,383 80, representing 25,500,000 passengers. The heaviest receipts for one day were $5,519 48. Sixteen hundred and forty-nine horses were in use, consuming feed costing $260,000.

The Iowa State University has always admitted the sexes on an equality to every department, and students, professors and towns-people, even those previously prejudiced against the idea, agree that no evil results, and many good ones have followed. One exception was made by a gentleman long connected with the University, who said that he thought he noticed a certain forwardness and brazenness of manner among the young ladies which they would hardly have acquired at home. As to immorality, there had been only one or two cases, which had never become public, and were even now only known to a few of the faculty. A student with whom I conversed was very emphatic in the opinion that the union of the sexes in recitation softened the manners and improved the morals of the young men.

PERSONAL.

"Mark Twain" is incorrigible. He telegraphed on Tuesday an interesting little incident to the Boston lyceum bureau, thusly: "A son was born to me, yesterday, and with the true family instinct he has gone to lecturing already. His subject is the same as Josh Billings's—'Milk.' You are hereby constituted his agent and instructed to make arrangements with lyceums."

Under the late English law permitting creditors to force insolvent Peers to pay their debts through the process of bankruptcy from Peers of Parliament—the Duke of Newcastle, the Earl of Westmoreland, the Earl of Winchelsea and Baron De Manley—are bankrupts. De Manley's debts are $4,000,000 and Newcastle owes $650,000, with an offer of paying 25 per cent. for a release in full. The unfortunate position of these Peers has raised the question, whether bankrupts should remain members of the House of Lords and judicial members of the Supreme Court of Appeal of Great Britain.

Disraeli wishes an elaborate preface for his collected works; telling how they were written; praising them, and referring, characteristically, to the criticisms upon them. In this he thus compliments the numerous American criticisms of 'Lothair' sent him by an admirer, "However various may be the opinions of those which I thus possess, they appear to me generally to be sincere, and in point of literary ability, taste, style, and critical acumen, I think they need not fear competition with the similar productions of our own land."

The marriage act required Victoria to proclaim her consent to her daughter's marriage with the Marquis of Lorne, and this is the way it was done: "At the Court at Balmoral, the 24th day of October, 1870, present the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council. Her Majesty in Council was this day pleased to declare her consent to a contract of matrimony between her Royal Highness the Princess Louise Caroline Alberta and John George Edward Henry Douglas Sutherland Campbell, (commonly called the Marquis of Lorne), which consent her Majesty has also caused to be signified under the Great Seal."

The President desires that the story about Mrs. Cox having sent to Mrs. Grant a bitter newspaper article on the administration to be contradicted. He says it has no foundation in fact. The relations between the two ladies always have been and are of the most friendly character.

The Secretary of the Navy's report will contain a "History of the American Navy; Its Present Condition, and its Requirements," by Admiral Porter, who will make the work most thorough and complete, giving the most minute details, and following the navy and its improvements through all its stages.

Eight thousand dollars for Nilsson's first Boston concert was a comfortable aggregate, but somebody remembers that the receipts of Jenny Lind's first concert there were $16,479. The average receipts of all the Lind concerts in Boston were $10,005, in Cincinnati $8,848 and in New York 8,177, Boston leading as usual. Nilsson has created an undoubted sensation, but it isn't a circumstance to the Jenny Lind excitement.

It is authoritatively denied that Chief Justice Chase intends to resign.

McFarland's friends wish it known that he is not yet in a lunatic asylum. They are not so anxious to have him crazy as they were during his trial.

Speaking of Senator Wilson's work, on which he is now engaged, "The Rise and Fall of the Slave Power in America," the poet Whittier says: "Probably no man in the country has his memory so stored with facts bearing on this subject. It might be of real service to the author if those readers who recall any important facts which have escaped his observation would put themselves in communication with him. Such men as Chief Justice Chase, Garrison, Tappan, (whose admirable life of his brother, Arthur Tappan, is full of important matter on the subject,) Sewall, Stanton, May, Leavitt, and Johnson, and such woman as Lydia Maria Child, Maria W. Chapman, Mary Grew, and Lucretia Mott, and many others whose names will suggest themselves, might be of great assistance by the prompt communication of their recollections of the times. Let Senator Wilson have all the material which can possibly be collected for a full and impartial narrative." The suggestion is a very good one.

A few weeks ago an American traveler in Moscow got into a chance conversation with a Russian gentleman who was much intesested in the United States, having heard of a civil war here having something to do with slavery. The American writes: He added, "that slavery, but you have it still." Thereupon I told him that slavery was dead. Clasping his hands with delight, he shouted, "C'est magnifique!" He could not have been mose agreeably surprised had I told him that his dearest foe had been called to heaven by a thunderbolt from a clear sky. And so we talked for half an hour, and always of America. As we entered our carriage after bidding our new acquaintance adieu, the valet-de-place who had accompanied us came up the side and whispered with an importagt air, "Do you know that man, Messieurs? c'est le Prince Dolgorouki!" It was the Governor General of Moscow.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

Proceedings of the Third Annual Convention of the Y. M. C. A. of the State of Pennsylvania.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

SCRANTON, November 10, 1870.

MR. EDITOR: Knowing the interest of your Christian readers in the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, this new and powerful agency that is in connection with the Church of Christ accomplishing so much for the cause of the Master, at the present time, I venture to write you a letter from this busy town.

The city of Scranton is now, in point of population, the third city in the State, and shows a more healthy and rapid growth than any other city in our Commonwealth. In 1860 the population was but 9,000, now it numbers 40,000, and yet it has but just started in its upward march. It is a busy, bustling town, in which the rush of business is everywhere apparent. Being located on an inexhaustable coal bed, all the hills being filled with the best anthracite coal, of course, a large part of the industry is the mining and carrying of it to market. In addition, immense iron works are all about the town. In fact, the whole Lehigh Valley is filled with them and manufactures engendered by them. The press is represented by courteous gentlemen, who have extended to the Convention every courtesy, reporting all our meetings, and aiding us in every way—daily reports, full and correct, have appeared each morning in the Republican and Times. Many representatives of the press from all parts of the State are present, showing that Christians are awakening up to the fact that the press is a power to enlist in the cause of Christ.

The third annual Convention of the Young Men's Association of the State of Pennsylvania convened in this city on Tuesday, November 8th. The first hour was spent in devotional exercises, after which the Convention was called to order by H. K. Porter, of Pittsburgh, President of the last State Convention.

Mr. Porter said that in calling the Convention to order, he felt that the key note of all its meetings had been struck. Before assembling here to commence our business, it was exceedingly appropriate that we should first address the Master, asking Him to help and inspire us. They came there with the weight of a responsibility which no doubt all felt. It was not merely for the purpose of pleasure that they had assembled, but for a special object, which had reference to others. Therefore, this occasion was a most solemn one, pregnant with great results. God has made us instrumental in his hands to do His work, and we ought to thank Him for what He has done for us, and is still doing. He hoped that all would feel that "It is not by power, or might, but by my spirit, saith the Lord."

The temporary committees were then appointed, after which there was a free discussion on our association work during the past year.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported the following persons as officers of the Convention:

President, Peter B. Simons, of Philadelphia; Vice-Presidents, General James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte; Alfred Hand, of Scranton; David E. Small, of York; Secretaries, Frank A. Denig, of Pittsburgh; Assistant Secretaries, Matthews, of Tidioute; Hiles Pardoe, of Carlisle, and Frank J. French, of Erie.

In the evening an immense meeting was held in City Hall, which, through the kindness and good taste of the ladies had been rendered very attractive. The following mottoes decorated the walls of the room: "Many in name, but one in Christ;" "Give God the Glory;" "God and our fellow man;" "The fellowship of kindred minds is like to that above;" "The Christians of Scranton greet you." The platform was neatly decorated with evergreens, and above it the expressive word "welcome."

A large choir of ladies and gentlemen added much attraction to the evening by the good music they discoursed. Highly interesting addresses were delivered by the presiding officers on behalf of the citizens of Scranton, Rev. Mr. Krohn, on behalf of the churches and H. M. Boies, President, on behalf of the Y. M. C. A., after which the meeting adjourned.

H. K. Porter, of Pittsburgh, on behalf of the convention responded in the address of welcome. He dwelt with particular emphasis upon the manifestation of sympathy which are exhibited, and thanked them in the name of the Lord for it.

He was followed with brief addresses by Mr. Peter B. Simons, of Philadelphia, president of the convention, and General James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, vice president, both of whom were exceedingly eloquent and interesting.

SECOND DAY.

There was a large attendance of delegates as well as of citizens, and the meetings of the whole day were characterized by an earnestness that showed how deeply interested all the delegates were in the work. After the opening exercises the following permanent committees were then appointed:

Business Committee—C. C. Shirk, of Erie, chairman; N. F. Evans, of Philadelphia; Jas. Laughlin, Jr., Pittsburgh; Mr. D. F. Fortney, of Bellefont; Rev. Mr. Taggart, Turtle Creek; Rev. R. Mott, Warren, George W. Jones, Altoona.

Devotional Committee—A. W. Bell, of Pittsburgh, chairman; J. C. Bachelor, of Scranton; Ira D. Sankey, of Newcastle; E. Franciscus, Harrisburg; Rev. D. J. Walker, Bloomsburg; J. J. Joyce, Jr., Philadelhia; Wm. Blair, Burgettstown.

Committee on Association—H. M. Boies, of Scranton, Chairman; J. A. Sternburg, of Reading; Thomas Marshall, of Philadelphia; H. K. Porter, of Pittsburgh; William W. Hague, of Tidioute; Rev. C. C. Kimball, of Erie.

Committee on Resolutions—Rev. William B. Culliss, of Philadelphia, Chairman; Rev. J. M. Gillette, of Union Mills; James Paul, of Dunbar.

Thomas K. Cree, Chairman of the Executive Committee, then submitted his annual report, which, after reading, was on motion referred to the Committee on Association. We give a few extracts of the most important points.

At the time of holding the last Convention there were in the State twenty-eight associations; two of these have disbanded during the year. Forty-one associations have been organized during the year, and efforts are making in a large number of towns with good prospects of effecting an organization. The reason for congratulation is not the number of associations so much as the spiritual improvement in our work manifested by all our organizations. There are now sixty-nine associations in our State. Reports have been received from sixty-seven of them—two only have failed to report; sixty-one associations report a membership of 8,562; thirty-four report expended during the year $31,864; nineteen reported 15,442 volumes in libraries. Other information of interest was embodied in the report regarding the work. The following exhibit of the finances of the committee was made: Amount expended during the year, $1,457 69 expended as follows: Printing, $800, postage $300; expenses of the Williamsport convention, $117 84; sundry expenses, $239 80. The receipts from all sources was $1,146 72; carrying a balance due committee of $311 67. During the most of the year it has been very necessary to employ an assistant, and part of the time two assistants, but most of the work has been done by the committee and volunteer assistance. During the year the committee has circulated 1,000,000 pages of printed matter; 15,000 printed letters and circulars, and over 1,500 written letters; have had 1,000 local and editorial notices of our work inserted at our request in the leading papers in every county in the State.

Recommendation was made for action on the following subjects: Time and place of the next convention; finances of the Executive Committee; subject of buildings; finances of Association; lectures, sermons, etc.; observance of second Sabbath of November; Association monthly; temperance and observance of the Sabbath. The report closes with the exhortation: "Forgetting those things that are behind, following after righteousness, Godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness. Fight the good fight, remembering in our work that Jesus our elder brother has promised, 'Lo, I am with you always.'"

The remainder of the morning session was spent in hearing a three minutes' report from each association in the State—showing a very gratifying condition of the work. The afternoon session was spent in a highly interesting discussion of the question, "How shall the business affairs of our association be placed upon a systematic basis, and thus secure the permanency of our organizations?" opened by T. K. Cree, of Pittsburgh, followed by General Beaver, of Bellefonte, J. H. Sturnburg, of Reading, Boies, of Scranton, and others. The next topic, "How shall our associations secure buildings, and what benefits shall accrue from their possession?" was opened by Mr. Taggart of Turtle Creek, and called forth a highly interesting discussion.

EVENING SESSION.

The church was filled with an audience fully in sympathy with this Convention. The first topic, "how shall we bring our active members and other Christians into our association work?" was opened by D. E. Small, of York, followed by Rev. Mr. Rankin, of Warren; Porter, of Pittsburgh; Hand, of Scranton, and others.

The second topic "what relation should exist between Associations and the Church of Christ," was opened by Rev. C. C. Kimball, of Erie, followed by Simons, of Philadelphia; Randell, of Warren; Beaver, of Bellefonte; Cree, of Pittsburgh; Morse, of New York, and others. The meeting was one of deep, earnest spirituality and all carried to their homes a desire to work more earnestly for the Master.

THIRD DAY—MORNING.

After devotional exercises the topic "What is our duty as a Christian organization, in regard to the Temperance cause?" was opened by Dr. Jewitt, a prominent temperance man of Scranton, followed by Rab, Pittsburgh; Small, York; Denig, Pittsburgh, and others.

LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Altoona, $25; Brainard Association (Easton), $25; Burgettstown, $10; Bellefonte, $50—$100 if necessary; Carbale, $20; Dunbar, $20; Easton, $25; Erie, $75—$100 if necessary; Great Bend, $10; Greensburg, $10, Hanover, $10; Harrisburg, $100; Kingston, $10; Lycoming Creek, $20; Mercer $15 in reports, $10 cash; Newcastle, $15; Pittsburgh, $200; Philadelphia, $200; Reading, $25; Scranton, $100; Shrewsbury, $10; Tidioute, $25; Temperanceville, $10; Turtle Creek, $20; Williamsport, $25; Warren, $15 in reports; York, $50; Brookville, $10; Carbondale, $10; Tamaqua, $5; Philadelphia Mission Association, $25.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The following topics, "What are the discouragements, failures, and errors of the past, and how are they to be avoided in the future?" and "What branch of Association work has afforded most encouragement during the past year?" were opened by Mossman, Scranton, followed by McCook, Pittsburgh, and others.

The next topic, "What work has been most successfully carried on in the smaller towns and country districts?" was opened by James L. Paul, of Dunbar.

The evening meeting was a very long one, and the topic, "Individual Responsibility and Efforts for the Salvation of the Soul." The first address was by T. K. Cree, Pittsburgh, followed by Alfred Hand, Scranton; Cephas Brainard, York; Rev. Taggart, Turtle Creek; H. M. Boies, Scranton; Rev. Cutter, Philadelphia; Rev. Kimble, Erie, and Peter B. Simpson, of Philadelphia.

The meeting was one of eminent spirituality, and a deep impression was made upon every one in the large audience.

The Convention then adjourned sine die to meet in Erie September 21st, 1871. The Convention throughout we call a grand success, and the benefits of it we hope will go into every section of the State.

CONSTITUTIONAL REFORM.

Views of the Press of Pennsylvania.

The Bedford Inquirer hopes that ere another State Treasurer is to be chosen, a Constitutional Convention may have removed the election from the Legislature, and given it into the hands of the people.

The Erie Republican fears that the propositions for minority representation and an appointive Judiciary will invoke strenuous opposition, but says both reforms are imperatively demanded, and proceeds as follows: "An elective judiciary has been tried, and while the thoughtful are no doubt fully convinced that it has failed as a system, we doubt whether the masses will be willing to take a step backward, and relinquish the power which that part of our constitution confers upon them. In regard to minority representation we have more hopes. The justice of the claim that minorities have some rights which majorities are bound to respect is so apparent to all that it cannot help but receive favorable consideration. But the first question, and the only one now in order, is whether the convention shall be called or not. Settle that, and then the other questions of how the Constitution shall be amended will come up, and the full opinion of the press and the people will be obtained."

The Blair county Radical says: "If there ever was any doubt about our State Constitution needing radical repairing, that was dispelled last winter in the election of a State Treasurer. But its deficiency is not confined to the want of provision making that officer elective. If it was, there would be no need of a Constitutional Convention—that simple amendment could be easily proposed by the Legislature and overwhelmingly ratified by the people, as others have been since 1838."

"Constitutions are the creations of republican governments, and are intended to protect the people in their rights rather than to afford redress for wrongs. The rights of the people in a free government embrace all their natural rights, except such as are voluntarily yielded or forced from a minority by the votes of a majority, for the good of the whole. A bill of rights which does not clearly define all the rights of the people is both a snare and a delusion. The Government of England has stood for two hundred years without a written constitution; that of Pennsylvania for nearly one hundred, with one but little understood. England is not free, but Pennsylvania pretends to be. We talk about our rights under the Constitution and do not know what they are! England makes no boast of Constitutional freedom. Our rights are as changeable as the minds of men. What they are to-day they were not yesterday, and may not be to-morrow. The Courts are gradually taking them away, and our Constitution is rapidly becoming a bundle of dry husks."

The Scranton Republican says: "We favor constitutional reform whenever and wherever it is needed. We have no patience with that class of non-progressives who believe, that because a certain constitution and code of laws answered all purposes, ten, twenty, fifty or a hundred years ago, that it will answer all purposes equally well now, or ten, twenty, or fifty years hence. Constitutions, whether State or National, must be changed from time to time to keep pace with the progress of the age. In this age of advancement constitutions and laws cannot be kept stationary at a certain stand-point. Improvements in government suggest themselves just as readily as improvements in machinery. We believe that the constitution of Pennsylvania requires amendments to accomplish certain necessary reforms, which the well being of the Commonwealth and the interests of her citizens require to be made. As this can only be accomplished by a constitutional convention, we are in favor of such a convention being called. This call, we believe, must be made in due form by the Legislature, and the people should bring a proper pressure to bear upon that body at its next session, to make the call. When the call is once made we have full confidence that the people will elect proper men to represent them in the convention.

"The subjects referred to as being proper questions for Constitutional reform cover a very wide field, but they will all sooner or later demand the attention of our people, and might as well be met at once. There is, no doubt, a class of men in the State who will object to any amendment of the State Constitution. They have such a great reverence for the document that they would stow it away as a relic of the past; we believe in amending, changing and improving it so as to make it as serviceable, practical and protective as possible. The Republican party has made the Federal Constitution to correspond with the age in which we live, and it to-day answers the purposes for which it was originally constructed better than it did previous to its amendment. In time to come it will require other amendments, and they will no doubt be made. The constitution of the State has been discovered to be deficent in some respects; it has not been amended for many years; now let us have a convention called, and the document improved according to the necessities of our people, and the well being of the State."

The Chambersburg Repository has the following on the subject: As the time draws near for the meeting of the Legislature, the press of the State should continue to agitate the proposition for a convention to amend the State Constitution. We know of nothing likely to come before the next Legislature so vastly important as this, nothing that so concerns the welfare of the people and the honor and prosperity of the State. The necessity for an amended Constitution is so palpable that opposition to it has not yet dared to make itself known, but we have no doubt that opposition will come, and that too, it may be, from a quarter where it is not expected. Already a negative sort of opposition is apparent. A number of so called Republican newspapers give it lukewarm support, while others fail to give it any endorsement whatever. It will be easy for these men, when the time comes, to conjure up some reason, a fictitious one will answer as well as any, to oppose the calling of a constitutional convention at all. We do not hesitate to say that no reason except a desire to perpetuate the corrupt legislation of the last decade, and to continue the profligacy which has marked the politics of the State can be given against the measure; and if opposition comes, no matter in what disguise, it will be seen to come from the same quarters which corrupted the legislative halls and debauched the politics of the State.

"The people are honest, and in this movement the people must act independent of the professional politician. They feel the need of honest legislation, and they will take the steps necessary to secure it, if it be brought to their attention. The majority of such as have made our laws for years back fear nothing so much as proper constitutional bars and restraints. If these be put up their occupation will be gone. It all chances for private legislation and the corrupt passage of bills were taken away, they would not seek to go to the Legislature if they could, and they could not if they would, because the same power which would take these away would also provide, by constitutional amendment, that the people and not the politicians might select their own servants."

STATE POLITICS.

Some one names Gen. Kane, of buck-tail fame, as a suitable candidate for Governor on behalf of the Republican ticket.

The Columbia Spy is of opinion that the good of the Republican party requires that the candidates now most prominent for the position of State Treasury be dropped, and the strength of the party united on a new man.

The Scranton Republican has these remarks in regard to the State Treasuryship: "We would like to see the Republican party united and harmonious in this State, working together in a common cause, for a common aim, and against a common political enemy. But this, it appears, is not to be this year, for that same class of dissenters and agitators; that continually fermenting element, which caused so much trouble last winter, is already at work, renewing and resurrecting the identical issues which it was hoped the contest of last year had buried in political oblivion. This troublesome class is comparatively small, but sufficiently active to make up for any deficiency in numbers. We see that the Harrisburg Telegraph, Beaver Radical, and one or two others of the same class, have opened their batteries upon all Republicans who refused to support Mr. Mackey for State Treasurer last winter, and they evince a determination to renew the contest on the same issue when the Legislature meets in January. The determination of these reckless and anti-Republican-spirited journals is to elect Mackey or disrupt the party. We believe that all men who have the future welfare of our party in this State at heart should set their faces against this suicidal and reckless policy, which the papers named have been mainly instrumental in setting on foot, and the people should bring a heavy pressure to bear upon their respective representatives in the Legislature. We believe that the composition of the next Pennsylvania Legislature is a decided improvement upon its two immediate predecessors. The Republican party wisely refused to re-elect any upon whom the stain of corruption rested; while most of those whose records are bright and whose characters are spotless were returned, with others, who it was thought, were incorruptible. So far as the Republicans in the next Legislature are concerned, we believe that they can be trusted and will prove incorruptible. A large number of the old members who were returned will be looked to to wield a salutary influence in the House, and mould its policy, expose trickery, ferret out, oppose and defeat corrupt schemes; in short, the men who have been "tried and not found wanting, must assert a proper power and influence upon the next Legislature. They are the men upon whom the Republican party relies to defeat all the schemes set on foot for the success of the "rule or ruin" faction which it is clear Mr. Mackey and his friends propose to inaugurate. Not only the integrity and welfare of the Republican party of the State, but the honor and dignity of the Commonwealth is, to a very large extent, in the hands of the Republican members of the next Legislature. Let them see to it that neither the future prospects of our party, the interests of the people, or the good name and dignity of the old Keystone, is sacrificed or compromised by a shameful contest over the election of State Treasurer."

THE Pennsylvania School Journal, which, for the last eighteen years has been under the editorial management of Hon. Thomas H. Burrows, was recently purchased by Messrs. J. P. Wickersham, State Superintendent of Common Schools, and J. P. McCaskey, its late Associate Editor. It is the leading educational journal in the State, and should be in the hands of every teacher and director in our common schools. It will be ably conducted by that distinguished advocate of popular education, Hon. J. P. Wickersham.

J. L. C. Miller, borough constable and tax collector of Sharon, has disappeared, and with him $900 of the borough funds.

The Bradford Argus says that A. R. McDonald, a sub-contractor of the Southern Central railroad, last week, after drawing two estimates, ran away, as is supposed, for Canada, leaving two laborers unpaid, and considerable sums due merchants in Waverly and Athens. It is a hard case for the laborers especially.

The Columbia Spy says: Last Monday a man named John Bissinger came to his death in a singular though terrible manner. He went to the country to buy some live stock of a farmer. After the purchase had been made, the party went into the house to take a drink. The farmer put down two bottles, supposed to be two different kinds of liquor. Mr. Bissinger drank of one, which proved to be the strongest kind of horse medicine. It so burned the coating of his stomach that before relief could be administered he was past recovery. He died the same day.

Mount Joy, Lancaster county, claims to have the meanest man in the world, on the ground that he stole the cabbage from the garden of the Soldiers' Orphans' Home, in that place.

The late term of the Susquehanna County Court was principally occupied in the trial of a very important case, L. Quick vs. the Susquehanna and Wyoming Valley Railroad and Coal Company. The plaintiff claimed an heirship title to some coal lands occupied by the Company—two lots worth about $1,000,000. The case had been tried in Luzerne county, and was taken to Montrose for a re-hearing. After an eight days' trial, the jury gave a verdict last week, for the plaintiff to recover one lot, styled the "Miner lot," containing 383 acres, which may be safely considered worth at least $500,000. The Court granted permission to the defendants to file an application for a new trial within four days.

An Opportunity

SELDOM OFFERED

Is now opened for Investors and Capitalists to buy the GUARANTEED

Second Mortgage 6 Per Cent Bonds

OF THE

Indianapolis and Vincennes

RAILROAD COMPANY,

Guaranteed by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company, as the following able opinion will explain for itself, to wit:

NEW YORK, July 15, 1870.

GEN. A. E. BURNSIDE—Dear Sir: We have examined the two contracts of guaranty, dated 1st of July instant, executed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and deposited with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, by one of which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company guarantee the payment of the principal and interest of the exchanged or substituted bonds secured by the First Mortgage of the Indianapolis and Vincennes Railroad Company to Edward Pearce and William Goddard, Trustees, for $1,700,000, and by the other, of which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company guarantees the payment of the principal and interest of the second mortgage bonds of the Indianapolis and Vincennes Railroad Company for $1,450,000, and are of the opinion that these guarantees are in proper legal form to bind the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; that that Company is fully authorized by law to enter into such guarantees, and that the bondholders, in case of need, can bring suit in their own names respectively, on the guarantees thus with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company for their benefit.

Yours, respectfully,

[Signed] CHAS. F. SOUTHMAYD,
Of Evarts, Choate & Southmayd.

We concur in the above opinion,

[Signed] MILLER, PEET & OPDYKE.

Only a LIMITED FEW of the above Bonds remain unsold, at the fixed rate of 80 and accrued interest from May 1st. They have 30 years to run, pay 6 per cent. interest per annum, semi-annually; are equally GUARANTEED by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, makes them as desirable a HOME INVESTMENT as the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway bonds, guaranteed by the same Railroad (P. C. R. R.) Company.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

SATURDAY EVENING, November 12, 1870.

The week closes on quite an active money narket. The demand for loans comes generrally from the legitimate wants of trade, vhich has during the week been brisk. The obbing houses have been busy, and purchases ave been liberal.

In local stocks the market is extremely uiet, and few transactions occur, and such as o take place are some trifling lots that would ot make any change in prices.

—In Government bonds we have to note a ontinuance of the weakness reported for some reeks past. Not only do quotations fail to adance with the gradual accumulation of interst, but they actually decline. The absence of ny foreign demand, and the excess of sales ver purchases by home investors, have a eadily depressing effect, and dealers are reucing their offers for the supply coming over heir counters. The fall in prices naturally nduces holders to seek some other form f investment, the bonds of well-established railroads and some of the tate securities generally receiving the preferce. The chief cause of the weakness of 5-20 onds, however, is found in the fact that the ption of the Government to redeem them ow applying to a large proportion of the hole issue, and the well-known desire of the ecretary of the Treasury to do so whenever e can negotiate his new 5 and 4½ per cent. onds, makes them at the present moment a ery uncertain security. The other issues of overnment bonds, 6s of 1881, 10-40s, and parcularly the 6 per cent. currency bonds, are n at prices relatively much higher than the 0s.

The New York Financial Chronicle, in oticing the Wall street markets at the close the week, says: The stock market has been ore active during the week, and prices as a le decidedly stronger, closing to-night at an vance of 1@2 per cent. on the closing prices last Friday. There have been some exptions to this, however, St. Paul being the ost conspicuous, and closing at a decline of out one per cent. on the common stock. There is much confidence expressed in railad stocks at current prices, and the tenncy of the market at the moment is cernly toward a higher range of quotations. e earnings for October, which we give toy in the usual tabular form, are arcely as favorable as the previous onths have recently been. Illinois ntral shows a decrease of $52 235. Milwaukee d St. Paul a decrease of $131,789, Chicago and ton a decrease of $20,445, Ohio and Mississipan increase of $27 143, and Wabash an inase of $28,925 The Illinois Central has ded considerably to its mileage in Iowa, and w operates a total of 1 107 miles. Neither ck Island nor Northwestern make any rert of earnings for October, as it is said that e arrangement of these roads for dividing rnings with the Burlington and Quincy prents an early settlement of the traffic acunts. The Reading road has just consumted an important negotiation in leasing Philadelphia, Germantown and Norrisn road at a rental of 12 per cent. on the pital to be increased about one-third. The se goes into effect December 1, and is appatly regarded as favorable to Reading stock, ich has since advanced.

BUSINESS.

The market during the week was not an active one, buyers as a general thing being disposed to hold back, or at least purchase very sparingly. Since our last weekly review the principle sales were for future delivery; many of them extending to the first of July 1871, this is certainly doing business ahead. The oil sold was at a very low figure, showing very conclusively that the prospect for cheap oil during the coming season is favorable. The oil production just published for October show a daily yield of 20,129 barrels per day; for the month 624.902 bbls. The cry is still they come; more wells are being put down and there is no telling what will be the result.

EAST LIBERTY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, SATURDAY, Novmeber 12, 1870.

REMARKS—The weather continues bright and warm for the season—indeed it resembles spring rather than late fall. Whilst the warm sunshine is almost universally acceptable, there are those who would rather have a taste of winter. We refer to pork dealers, who are afraid to engage in their legitimate business during the present warm weather.

The run of stock was not heavy during the week, cattle, particularly, being light. As will be seen by the sales we give below, a heavy business was done in hogs, mostly, however, for shipment east. The same may be said of sheep. Cattle and sheep sold at about the prices of last week, whilst hogs advanced from 75 to $1 00 per cwt.

Yard master C. R. Martin reports the arrival of the following number of cars of cattle, sheep, hogs, horses and mules, during the week ending Saturday, November 12:

	Cars.		Cars.
Cattle	224	Hogs	85
Sheep	94	Mules	26
Horses	14
Total			444

Cattle.

The following were the closing figures of the market: Extra, 1,200 to 1,500 steers $6 50@7 00; good to prime, 1,100 to 1,200, $5 50@6 00; common to medium, 1,000 to 1,100, $5 00@5 25; bulls, stags and cows, 800 to 1,500, $3 50@4 00; stock steers, 800 to 1,000, $4 00@4 50.

IRON MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

November 12.—The business in Scotch pig is still restricted by the light supply, and we have nothing to note beyond a few small parcels from yard at prices favoring sellers. The sales are 200 tons Eglinton, in lots, at $33, and 50 do Glengarnock at $35. There has been no demand whatever for American, and prices have a softening tendency. New rails have been in active request, and we notice sales of 5,000 tons here and to arrive, on private terms, the market closing at former quotations. Old are scarce and wanted, and prices are a trifle firmer; 260 tons double-headed sold at a private price, and 150 do, old car wheels, $38 50, cash.—Price Current.

PHILADELPHIA.

November 12—The market for pig iron continues greatly depressed and prices are barely maintained. Small sales of forge iron at $26@27; foundry at $31@32 50 for No. 1, and at $32 9@31 for No. 2, according to grade and position of the furnace.

Manufactured Iron—Bar iron has been duller this week than for a long time past, and it is believed that if it was forced upon the market not more than $75 ℔ ton could be obtained, although nominally quoted at $77 50@80.

Scotch Pig is unchanged; no sales.

Blooms are neglected; prices nominal.

Nails are dull for the season. Prices declined in the early part of the week to $4 15, but it was afterward recovered, and the market closed at $4 25 for large and $4 40 for small lots. Nails are very scarce, but there seems to be a disposition on the part of some holders to force sales.

Anchors and chains are quiet. Small sales of the former at 7½c, and the latter at 7¾c ℔ ℔.—Price Current.

A CAR ON FIRE.—Saturday morning, about nine o'clock, the forward passenger car of the up mail train on the Connellsville Railroad took fire near Armstrong station, and the passengers were badly frightened, though fortunately no one was injured. It appears that the roof of the car caught fire from the stove pipe. The train was stopped, and the flames extinguished by means of buckets.

FARO AGAIN IN COURT.

Four Well Known Gamblers Sentenced.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions on Saturday morning, before a full bench, the District Attorney moved for judgment in the cases of Elijah Hall, Wm. Rafferty, Joseph Armstrong and John C. Patch, tried and convicted at the last session of the Court for being common gamblers. They were arraigned and sentenced as follows:

ELIJAH HALL

was first called to the bar, but before sentence was passed Mr. Moreland, his counsel, asked leave to say a few words in his behalf. He said Hall had already suffered an extended imprisonment, and that during his incarceration he had given very important information to the District Attorney. He also begged to say that defendant was suffering from pulmonary disease; that his family were in very straightened circumstances, and that he had promised to reform, therefore he would ask the Court to be merciful toward the defendant.

Judge Collier—The Court would rather hear of any promises of future reformation on the part of the defendant.

Mr. Moreland—He has solemnly asseverated, your Honors, that he will never again engage in the business, and he has also expressed a determination to prevent, so far as in his power, others from doing so.

District Attorney Pearson—The defendant made informations against eight or nine persons, charging them with gambling, and they have been held for trial.

Judge Collier—Mr. Hall, the sentence of the Court is that you pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution, and that you undergo four months imprisonment in the County Workhouse.

The court next took up the case of

WM. RAFFERTY,

Who was convicted and recommended to mercy on one indictment and plead guilty to another.

Mr. Marshall made an address on behalf of his client, stating that he was a young man of excellent family, and, save for this case, in good standing in the community. Since his conviction he had shown a disposition to reform, and had been faithfully attending to his duties in his father's store. Mr. Marshall hoped that the court would deal as leniently with him as possible, assuring the court that no similar charges would be made against him in the future, and that there had been an entire reformation in the life of defendant.

Judge Collier—We have taken into consideration the remarks of the counsel. Hoping, however, that the Rafferty's experience in this case will have a good effect on him hereafter, we have concluded to pass a sentence upon him of two months imprisonment in the county jail, a fine of $250 and the costs of prosecution, and that he stand committed until the sentence be complied with. Sentence on the other indictment was suspended.

PATCH AND ARMSTRONG

Were next disposed of, Mr. John Coyle appearing in their behalf, and addressing the Court at length. Armstrong, it appeared, had merely gone to the faro bank to collect a bill while the play was in progress; took a seat and dealt at the request of the regular dealer, who had business outside. It was while thus dealing that the police appeared upon the scene. Patch was only employed to watch the door and prevent strangers from entering, he being obliged to take the situation for want of other employment.

Mr. Coyle made a motion for a new trial, but it was refused. Counsel then raised a case in which he had business with a man named Boggs. He wanted to serve a legal document upon him, and for that purpose visited a faro bank which Boggs kept. While there a rap was heard at the door. Boggs told him to open it. "Now, according to Judge Sterrett's charge in this Patch case," continued Mr. Coyle, "I would have been found guilty as well as Patch was in his case."

Judge Sterrett stated that he had made no such ruling.

Judge Stowe to Mr. Coyle—You or I might go to a faro bank and look on at the play, or bet a little, and yet it would be folly rather than a crime.

The Court, after a consultation, decided to sentence the defendants and deal with them lightly. They accordingly ordered Armstrong to pay a fine of $25, with the costs of prosecution, and undergo an imprisonment for two days in the county jail. The sentence of Patch was similar, save that the term of imprisonment was ten instead of two days.

It is positively asserted that all the defendants have entirely reformed, and applications for their pardon, which are to be made, as we understand, will no doubt meet with success.

Women's Christian Association.

Anniversary Meeting Last Evening.

Annual Report—The Work of the Association During the Past Year.

The third anniversary of the Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh was held in the First Presbyterian Church (Rev Scovel's), Wood street, last evening. There was a large attendance, and a great deal of interest manifested in the exercises.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. Dr. Jacobus.

Hon. Robert McKnight read the annual report, as follows:

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

The close of another year calls for a third summary of work done by this Association. While it can fairly be claimed that great things have been accomplished, as a whole, yet all departments have not met with equal success.

It may be well to repeat that several distinct organizations are combined in this Association, each having a separate Board of officers and managers, but the same President.

The institutions thus inaugurated now number five: The "Temporary Home for Destitute Women;" "Christian Home for Women;" "Boarding House for Working Women;" the "Industrial School." Separate reports will be presented from the Secretary of each of these.

The work first began by this Association is the one least encouraging in its extent and results.

We refer to tract distributing and general missionary work throughout the city.

Three different plans have been tried since our organization; the first, that of making distributors individually responsible to the Association; second, giving each district in charge of a certain church, and finally, appointing a lady manager to every district, who was expected to find her own visitors and become personally responsible to the Association for the accomplishment of the work.

Twenty-one managers were selected in January of this year, but not more than one-third have performed the work undertaken.

As the districts were not visited when assigned to churches, it was hoped this plan, which had been so successful in Allegheny for years, would be equally so here.

The one hopeful feature in the case is, that despite the interruptions inevitable during the warm weather, and the neglect and unfaithfulness of many visitors, still a few noble workers have persevered through all the year, and in the end the result is encouraging.

The number of families visited is almost double that of last year, and nearly three times as many tracts have been distributed, with an increase of 1,439 papers.

The sum total of work done this year is as follows: 144 reports received; 5,633 families visited; 1,067 families attend church; 138 do not; 3 promised to go; 1,881 children, and all of 112 other families, go to Sabbath school, and 479 do not; 33 children were brought into Sabbath school, and 54 promised to attend; 18 families were found destitute of the Bible and 8 supplied; 9 homeless women were found; 11,498 English tracts, 3,284 English papers, 363 German tracts, 367 German papers and 172 small books have been distributed; 18 persons refused tracts; 3 subscribers were obtained for papers. The visitors were instructed to sell papers to those able to purchase, and thus make the association, in a measure, self-supporting.

Two changes have been made in the Board of Officers and Managers by the resignation of Miss A. C. Shaw Treasurer, and Mrs. R. Robison, Manager. Mrs. W. P. Logan was elected to fill the former, and Mrs. C. B. King the latter vacancy.

During the year meetings were called by this association which have resulted in the formation of a "Women's Union Infirmary Society," to aid the "Zenana" work in India, and help raise funds to complete an orphan asylum in Calcutta.

The "Springfield Mission Sabbath School," in the Twelfth ward, whose origin was mentioned in last year's report, still numbers one hundred and twenty-five scholars. They have earned and contributed $95 to the "Zenana" work.

Miss E. S. Wade Secretary of the "Industrial School," reports its opening in the "Gilmore Mission" building, on the 22d January, 1870, under the direction of Mrs. Whitely and Mrs. C. B. King assisted at different times by ten other teachers.

Eighteen sessions of the school were held, the last being May 21. The roll-book contains the names of 107 scholars; the number present at the first session, 12; and the largest number at any one time, 54.

One hundred and one articles were made by the children and given to them. Several donations of money and materials were received.

The thanks of the managers are due to Mr. James B. Semple for his kindness as Treasurer of the Board of Trustees, in paying the salary of the woman employed as janitor.

The expenses were only for coal and working material. A balance of $5 50 remains in the treasury.

The children seemed much interested and anxious to know when the school would re-open this fall.

It is expected that effective measures will soon be taken for the erection of the "Christian Home for Women," upon the property at Wilkinsburg donated for that purpose by Mr. Kelly. The managers continue to be impressed with the urgent need of such a "Home" out of the city, by their experience in the management of the "Temporary Home."

It is hoped a suitable building can be erected for $12,000. Mr. Balfe, the architect, is preparing a plan of the "Home" which he intends donating to the association. In the spring the property will be suitably enclosed.

Mrs. Poindexter, Mrs. James Irwin, and Mrs. Frank Woods have been appointed a committee to draft a constitution and make other arrangements preparatory to commencing the building during the coming year.

Any subscriptions for this cause will be gladly received by this committee.

In May of this year, the pressing need of the long thought of "Boarding-house for Working Women" was urged again by some members of this Association. A committee was appointed to confer with the ladies in Allegheny, already interested in the work; and as a result, a society has been formed, and measures have been taken to establish such an institution, all of which is more fully stated by the Secretary of the same.

Through the kindness of the Young Men's several months been held in the parlor of their Association, corner of Penn and Sixth streets. It was believed a larger attendance might result from the use of this more acceptable place of meeting.

This report would be very incomplete did we not urge the great need of visitors, and request those who have time and means at their disposal to aid personally in the great work of carrying the gospel to those who are perishing all about us for lack of the truth.

All interested in the work of the Association are cordially invited to attend the monthly meetings, held on the last Thursday of each month at 2½ o'clock, in the parlor of the Young Men's Christian Association.

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TEMPORARY HOME FOR DESTITUTE WOMEN.

The work of another year has been registered in the great book of time, the result of which may not be seen in this life; it is for us simply to adhere to the admonition that has been given: commit thy works unto the Lord; put thy trust in Him and He will bring it to pass. May the blessings of God rest on the labors that have been put forth to lift humanity to a level where its aims would be higher, and its motives purer. The greatest skill and discretion are essential to all successful efforts for the conversion of sinners; the religious feelings are the finest, most shrinking, most carefully guarded of all the emotions of the human soul; hence the necessity of the utmost delicacy in addressing anyone, especially one who is blackened in sin and fallen so low that little hope seems left to them. This broad avenue of Christian work in some measure may be repulsive, and not the work we should have chosen, but it is the Master's work; where He has led we have followed with love for all, realizing it is no light thing to take the guidance of a human soul, and lead it to a higher living. There has been much to discourage the managers; they have felt it every step of the way; but they have not shrunk from or evaded it, but have tried to rescue those who have come under their care, for the dark shadow has fallen across the life of so many of our race, whom dire temptation is leading to ruin. May the kindly hand reach out to rescue them, and that love which has been extended towards them be effectual in the promotion of much good.

The benevolent operations of the Home during the past year have not been confined entirely to the reclaiming of the fallen. Its doors have been opened to the weary and destitute stranger. Money has been given them, and being without funds, passes have been secured, enabling such to resume their journeyings. For instance, one of the managers not long since met at the Union Depot a poor and distressed woman with an infant and two small children. The Mayor of Baltimore had paid her way to Pittsburgh, she making her escape from a worthless and drunken husband; she was without means to prosecute her journey, her place of destination being Indiana, had been all night at the depot, was sick and discouraged, for she had given up her check and they would not give her her trunk. The manager, after some trouble, secured it, and carried them to the Home. After resting four days, and all the expenses of her journey met, she left with a light heart, feeling she had not words to express her gratitude. Also, another; one night last winter a man came to the Home with his wife, sister-in-law and five children, asking shelter. They had traveled on foot from Philadelphia, had not had a change of raiment for three weeks, and were going to Kansas to take possession of some Government land which he was entitled to as a soldier. The women and children were taken in, clothed, fed and sheltered for the night, and went on their way rejoicing the next day, very grateful for such hospitality. They professed to be Christian people, hence the Savior's words fall on our ears: "As ye have done it unto one of my disciples, ye have done it unto me."

Religious services have been held as usual each Lord's day, conducted by the clergymen of the city and other kind friends; visitations frequently during each week by the Managers. Their great desire has been to instill industrious habits, teaching them to read and write, keeping them well employed, if possible. (Any sewing sent to the Home would be very acceptable; prices moderate; the matron will see that it is properly done.) The former matron was providentially called away, but her place is well filled by Miss Martin, who discharges the duties of the Home faithfully.

The number of persons received during the year was one hundred and twenty-one, and twenty-five children; some of these persons were intemperate, others wishing to reform and lead different lives, while the greater number were cases of destitution; eighteen went out to service, two went to friends, four to the City Farm, two to the Homœopathic Hospital, one to the House of Refuge, two ran away, eight left of their own accord, ten were discharged, a goodly number were strangers, others were cases of destitution in the city receiving temporary shelter.

The managers acknowledge, with profound thanks, the gratuitous service kindly given by Dr. John Wishart, and Mr. J. H. Baldwin for law business transactions, as well as to the many friends who have contributed so liberally; thanks are also due to the gentlemen whose donations of money enabled the managers to put necessary repairs on the house, and as the Home has to depend mostly on the public for its support, the managers earnestly solicit a continuance of their patronage. Everything in the way of food, clothing, groceries and coal will be thankfully received at the Home, No. 45 Chatham street.

J. M. SMITH, Secretary.

The account of Mrs. James Irvin, Treasurer, shows the receipts for the year to have been $1,630, all of which was consumed during the year, save a balance of $405 82.

REPORT OF THE MANAGERS OF THE HOME FOR AGED PROTESTANT WOMEN.

One year ago the managers of the "Home for Aged Protestant Women" reported they were preparing to erect a building upon the land donated to them. They have now the pleasure of stating that the house is under roof, and will be finished, ready for furnishing, during the coming spring.

The sum of money obtained from subscriptions not being sufficient to defray the cost of the edifice, the managers decided to open a bazaar, trusting thus to obtain the balance of the money needed. This bazaar was held in City Hall, Pittsburgh, from October 3d to October 15th. About $7,000 was realized from the effort, which, with the amount previously secured from subscriptions, will complete the present building.

When the Home is finished a further sum of money will be required to furnish it. As several individuals have already volunteered to furnish a room each, it is suggested that the task will be easily and quickly accomplished if each Church will assume the furnishing of one room.

The interest shown by the various churches, in the Bazaar, the pecuniary success of which was owing to their combined generosity and labor, leads the managers to hope that a similar interest will be felt by them, in seeing the Home suitably furnished.

When the Home is ready for occupancy, funds will be needed to support it. It is believed that ultimately, endowments sufficient for its maintenance will be obtained, but until such is the case, the managers propose to obtain yearly subscriptions to meet the expense.

Very respectfully,

MARY C. THURSTON,
Secretary Home for Aged Protestant Women.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE BOARDING HOME FOR WORKING WOMEN.

During the month of June in the present year, the subject was agitated of establishing a boarding house or home for young, homeless working women, in connection with the Women's Christian Association. After several months prayerful deliberation, with earnest and persistent inquiries concerning the best methods of carrying on such a work, the organization was completed November 2d, 1870, by the election of the following Board of Managers:

President, Mrs. Rev. J. Y. Garrette; Vice President, Miss Mary Bryan; Secretary, Mrs. Thomas McFadden, Jr.; Treasurer, Miss E. S. Wade; Managers, Mrs. Rev. Laird, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Claney, Mrs. Ewing, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Sanderson, Miss Sarah Campbell, Miss Kate McKnight, Miss Hattie Bryam, Miss Blackstock.

The need of such a Home is no longer a question. Every intelligent observer of city life, and reader of the daily newspapers, has long felt the urgent necessity for a sheltering, Christian Home, with educational advantages, where the homeless toilers in our factories, shops and stores might enjoy home comforts, and board for a sum which would merely cover expenses, thus making the institution, not a "charity," but a help to those who are disposed to help themselves. A very desirable house, located at No. 25 Union avenue, Allegheny, looking out upon the beautiful park grounds has been rented, and arrangements for its immediate occupancy are being made. While the service of a competent Superintendent of a Female Seminary have been secured.

We ask to-night for your Christian sympathy and prayers, and practical co-operation. Thankful for the one thousand dollars already secured, we ask for an additional thousand now since the house has been obtained, and we also would ask, who will lend a helping hand and make necessary repairs? Who will paint it? Who will paper it? Who will furnish a room? Who will provide matting for the halls and stairs? Who will donate suitable paper for its library and reading room? Who will present a Cabinet organ? Who will send provisions, furniture and fuel? How many will give some substantial evidence of their appreciation of this effort to do good in many other practical ways? so that this Christian Home for Working Women shall be fully equipped and ready to enter upon a future of great usefulness.

While we trust confidentially in the blessed promise, the Lord will provide, we believe God uses his people as instruments in carrying out his purposes, and our faith goes out to-night, not only to Him, but to you, for abundant success in this new and important field of Christian labor.

Be assured that those who show gratitude to their Heavenly Father for their homes of luxury, by fully giving of their substance to the needy, will find in their hearts higher purposes, more unselfish aims, the consciousness of lives usefully spent in the Lord's vineyard, and a livelier hope of receiving a "home" in those mansions above, which Jesus has gone to prepare for those who love Him. Think you such resulting benefits form only a small part of the glorious compensation?

(Signed) MRS. THOS. MCFADDEN, JR., Secretary.

The audience united in singing the 259th hymn, commencing:

"When Jesus dwelt in mortal frame,
What were his works from day to day."

ADDRESS BY REV. MINGISS.

Rev. George J. Mingiss, City Missionary of New York, was then introduced and delivered an able address on the subject of the "Missionary work of Women." He said that one of the most important questions now agitating the minds of the men and women of the country was, what could we do for the masses without and without hope? He said that he wished to illustrate through the working of Christian organizations the fitness of Women's Christian Associations as great instrumentalities in the work of evangelizing the masses. He discussed at considerable length the influence which the women as missionaries had exerted in New York and elsewhere, and the great results that had been accomplished. He called upon all the noble minded women of our city to extend a helping hand to this association in its efforts to benefit the community.

Dr. Scovel announced, at the close of the address, that Mr. Mingiss would this (Monday) afternoon address the students of the Western Theological Seminary upon the subject of "Work among the masses."

Rev. H. Thane Miller, of Cincinnati, sang the beautiful melody, "The Prodigal Child."

Mr. Miller made the closing prayer, after which the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Preston.

THREE PERSONS DROWNED.

Distressing Accident Near Osceola.

A distressing accident, resulting in the drowning of a young lady and two men, occurred near Osceola, on the Youghiogheny river, about nine o'clock Saturday evening. It appears that five persons, Michael McBride, Edward Pryor, a Mr. Campbell, Miss Campbell, his sister, and another man, name unknown, got into a skiff to cross the river, and when about the middle of the stream the boat commenced leaking, and before assistance could reach the party, it sank and all were left in the drowned. The other two when they found the boat was sinking jumped into the river and swam towards the shore, and by the assistance of parties who were drawn to the bank by their cries were saved. It appears that the Campbells were on their way to Osceola to do some business, and the other parties wishing to cross the river got into the skiff with them. Search was made for the bodies, but up to half-past one o'clock yesterday only one body, that of Pryor, had been found. Deceased was about thirty years of age and a Scotchman. He has no relatives in this country. The young lady was about eighteen years of age and her brother about twenty. Their parents reside near Green Oak.

It will be remembered that several months ago a sad drowning accident, by which three persons lost their lives, occurred about one mile above the scene of this distressing occurrence. There seems to be a sort of fatality attached to this portion of the Youghiogheny river.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The following is an extract from the report of the Secretary:

"As year after year rolls round, bearing in its arms our life's histories, the tale of want and woe is so oft repeated that it becomes painful to listen to, and monotonous in its details. If the hearing be painful, what must the endurance be? If the repetition is monotonous; surely, surely the reality is anything else. Our Relief Society has once more started on its yearly career of benevolence, and as the winter (hard season for the poor) approaches, we come before our friends, asking them to lay the case to heart, and, with the means God has given to so many, to help us in our work, let each one that reads this article judge himself or herself by the definition of Christian giving, furnished by a philanthropist: "Giving liberally is giving to that point where it becomes self-denial."

A Knotty Point—A Poser for the Court.

In the transaction of the usual routine business in the Court of Quarter Sessions on Saturday a case was called up, the discussion of which developed a very knotty point for lawyers, and a poser for the Court, in view of the fact that there exists no precedent, so far as the counsel engaged in the case, or the Judges know of, to refer to. The case in brief, is as follows:

In the summer of 1866, Joseph P. Padden was convicted and sentenced in the usual way in a case of affiliation. He entered into a recognizance, with security, to abide the order of the Court, which is to pay the prosecutor $10 per month for five years; the security of Padden took out a bail piece, arrested and delivered him to the Court. The question at once arose, "can the bail in such a case surrender his principle?"

The motion was brought to the attention of the Court by a motion of Colonel Kirker to have the bail discharged. He argued in favor of the motion and Robert M. Gibson, Esq., replied in opposition to it.

Mr. Gibson stated to us that both he and Mr. Kirker had examined the books and made inquiries, but were unable to discover anywhere a precedent. As stated, the matter was a poser for Judges Sterrett and Stowe, who were on the bench, and the latter gentleman asked that the motion be continued until next Saturday, in order to give him an opportunity to examine into the matter. The case was allowed to lay over, as stated.

LIGHT GUARD FAIR.—City Hall. Musical Turk. Picket Guard and Sheridan's Ride. To-night.

The Lecture Season.

The fall and winter course of lectures, to be given under the auspices of the Lecture Committee of the Young Men's Mercantile Library Association, will be inaugurated on Thursday evening next, at the magnificent new Library Hall, when Rev. A. Willits, D. D., of Philadelphia, a finished scholar and eloquent speaker, will give his lecture on 'Sunshine on the Philosophy of a Happy Life." The Reverend gentleman, we believe, has never lectured in this city, but is highly spoken of in Philadelphia. The Committee have resolved to reserve no seats, and those who go first will of course get the best. Those who desire either single or season tickets can secure them by calling at the Library, on Penn street, above Sixth.

ACCIDENTS.—William Tracey, who works at the bridge at Hatfield, had two of his fingers crushed by being caught between two timbers. Amputation will probably be necessary. Saturday evening about six o'clock a boy by the name of Jacob Gothern fell from the second story of a new building in the Seventeenth ward and broke his shoulder blade. Both of the above cases were attended by Dr. Clark.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

The following business was transacted in this Court on Saturday:

REMOVAL OF PRISONERS.

In the case of John Huey and Samuel Jones, who are confined in the Westmoreland county jail, at Greensburg, upon a charge of robbing the postoffice at Webster, in said county, on motion of the United States District Attorney, it appearing to the Court that the Westmoreland county jail is too full of State prisoners to safely keep the above named defendants, the Court ordered the Marshal to remove them to the jail of Allegheny county and commit them until the further order of the Court. The prisoners will be brought here to-day. The District Attorney of Westmoreland county asked for their removal.

OTHER BUSINESS.

SCOTCH CAPS—At Palmer's, 84 Wood street.

ALLEGHENY.

ESSEX HAT—Something nobby for young men at Palmer's, 84 Wood street.

COMMON CASES.—Mayor Callow had five common cases before him yesterday morning.

LIGHT GUARD FAIR.—City Hall. Musical Turk. Picket Guard and Sheridan's Ride. To-night.

LECTURE.—Rev. Mr. Mingiss will deliver a lecture before the students of the Western Theological Seminary this afternoon.

BAD BOYS.—Two boys named McGready and Snyder, were yesterday arrested and held by Mayor Callow for a further hearing to answer a charge of making a practice of stoning conductors on the Fort Waye Railroad.

SERIOUS STABING AFFRAY.

Two Men Badly Beaten and Stabbed—Two of the Offenders Arrested.

A stabbing affray of a very serious character occurred near the foot of Troy Hill Saturday evening. It appears that two men, names unknown, became involved in a fierce fight a short distance from the car station, when two men named Frank Peppernay and Barney Gasplen interfered to separate the combatants. Some of the rowdies interfered on behalf of the fighters, and a fearful row immediately ensued. Gaspien received a severe cut in the forehead, and a second blow laid open the back of his head to the skull, while he received several severe stabs in the back. Peppernay was beaten up in a similar manner, and one of his assailants plunged a butcher's knife in his side. Fortunately the knife struck a thick pass book, but the force of the blow was such that after passing through the thick covers of the book a severe wound was inflicted. The injured men were attended by Dr. Alcorn. Mayor Callow yesterday visited the injured men and took their depositions, which implicated a number of parties. Two young men named William Cooper and William Sliess were arrested on charges of felonious assault and battery last evening. Gliess was committed for a further hearing in default of $2,000 bail, and Cooper furnished bail in the sum of $500.

Arrest of Alleged Thieves.

Last Friday evening officer Poland, of Neillie's police force, received a telegram from Urichsville, Ohio, stating that several parties had been arested at that place on the supposition that they were noted thieves. He visited the place, and Saturday evening returned with James Brown and John Garrett, who were supposed to have been concerned in several recent robberies in this city. Last Saturday week engineer Harley and a brakeman were robbed of their watches while sleeping at the Union Depot, Pittsburgh, and notified the police that they suspected the parties now arrested.

The arrest is a very important one, as the parties are charged with being concerned in several robberies which have been committed in Allegheny recently. An information was made some days since before Alderman Mullen, of Allegheny, charging them with robbing Patrick McNally, on West street, by which some $300 in money was secured. There is also a charge pending against them at the Allegheny Mayor's office for robbing Allison's saloon in the Diamond in that city, and they are also charged with having been concerned in the robbery of Mr. Rose, on Water street, and also in that of Mr. Samuel Young, a butcher residing on North avenue, near Beaver street. An information charging them with the Rose robbery was made before Alderman Bowden.

ROWDYISM.—The Perrysville Plankroad was yesterday crowded with carriages filled with pleasure seekers, and some acted in a very disorderly manner. One buggy containing a couple of young men ran into another vehicle and damaged it considerably. The carriages were upset while coming down Rose Walk hill, and the occupants slightly injured.

COMMITTED TO THE WORK HOUSE.—Mayor Callow on Saturday committed Fred Crawford and Robert Preston to the work-house for thirty days, on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. John Morgan a vagrant, was also committed thirty days to the same institution.

INQUEST TO-DAY.—Alderman Bolster will today hold an inquest on the remains of Thos. Bartley, who died last Thursday, from injuries received by being run over by the cars on the Fort Wayne Railroad.

ELECTION.—On the 21st instant a primary election will be held in the Third ward, at which members of Council, School Directors, and other ward officers will be elected.

SOUTH SIDE.

CITY OF BOSTON.—A very desirable hat for middle-aged men, at Palmer's, 84 Wood street.

LIGHT GUARD FAIR.—City Hall. Musical Turk. Picket Guard and Sheridan's Ride. To-night.

THE BIRMINGHAM POLICE.—There is a belief that no grounds exist for the charges of dereliction of duty on the part of the Birmingham police.

GOOD.—Since the East Birmingham authorities appointed policemen for the borough, nearly $100 has been paid over in the way of fines on persons arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. This is certainly a good showing.

ASSISTANT FIRE MARSHAL.—Mr. John B. Jones, of the Walton Fire Company, East Birmingham, and formerly of the Duquesne, of Pittsburgh, has been appointed an Assistant Fire Marshal for the South Side. Mr. Jones will make an efficient officer.

SUITS WITHDRAWN.—The four individuals charged before Justice Krehan, of Birmingham, with felonious assault and battery, surety and robbery, by H. B. Turgy, an employee of Knox's fruit farm, have been discharged, Mr. Turgy withdrawing the informations on Saturday.

ALLEGED LARCENY.—Christian Neldolf preferred a charge of larceny against George Schmidt before Justice Krehan. The accused and prosecutor roomed together in a house situated in Lower St. Clair township. One morning Schmidt arose early, and seeing a timekeeper in the shape of a silver watch hanging on a peg, slipped it down into his pocket and departed. The watch belonged to his companion, who subsequently preferred the information stated, and officer Eichley arrested the offender, who was held for a hearing.

Public Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The attendance at both the afternoon and evening performances at the Opera House was large. Mrs. Scott Siddons's engagement was a success, both artistically and financially, and she carries away with her the best wishes of a large number of our best citizens. Her rendition of the character of Rosalind, in "As You Like It," was very fine indeed, and received the earnest approbation of those present. We hope we may have the pleasure of seeing her on the stage in Pittsburgh soon again.

To-night has been set apart for the benefit of Mr. J. Newton Gotthold, leading man of Manager Canning's company. Although Mr. Gotthold has been with us but a short time, he has won his way to the front rank of local favorites. He is an actor of very considerable ability, studious and pains-taking, and nearly always forms a correct conception of characters for which he may be cast. He deserves well at the hands of our amusement loving public, both as actor and gentleman, and should have a good audience. The bill selected is a fine one, comprising the drama of the "Word of Honor," a comedietta adapted from the French by Mr. Gotthold entitled "When Women Weep." and the drama of "A Glance at New York."

To-morrow Edwin Booth begins an engagement of eleven nights and two matinees, during which he will produce the following plays: Tuesday evening, Iago; Wednesday, Shylock; Thursday, Richard; Friday, Richelieu; Saturday, matinee, Iago; evening, Richard; Monday and Tuesday evenings, Hamlet; Wednesday, Richelieu; Thursday, Lady of Lyons; Friday, King Lear; Saturday, matinee, Hamlet; Saturday evening, King Lear. Seats can be secured at the box-office for any or all of these performances.

VARIETIES.—Trimble's Varieties Theater has the field to itself in its class of entertainments, but Manager Aims still keeps his list of attractions full. Among the novelties announced for this week are a pantomime by the Hernandez Foster Pantomime Troupe; the dancing blondes; M'lle. Blanche and M. Leopold, gymnasts; Collins, Oaks and Pendy, new song and dance men; Jenny Benson, the cloggist, and a host of others. A great bill is offered to-night.

THE ALLEGORY.—Library Hall presented a beautiful sight Saturday afternoon, at the matinee performance of the Great Republic Allegory and Tableaux. The audience was the largest ever assembled at a matinee in this city, and was largely made up of bright faced, happy children, who formed a most charming setting for the beautiful pictures presented on the stage. At the evening performance, the fourth of the series, the attendance was also very large and appreciative. All the characters were rendered admirably, and the grouping and tableaux very fine. Miss Hager's performance on the Steinway "grand" gave great pleasure to the musically inclined portion of the audience. These entertainments have given our citizens an opportunity of studying and admiring the advantages of our free educational system, and have really afforded a rich treat. The High School has also gained a great triumph, besides realizing a handsome sum for the benefit of that admirably conducted institution. Mr. Hager has visited our city three seasons, and in that time thirteen representations of his Allegory have been given; but as it has been remodeled and greatly improved since his last visit, the present has proved the most satisfactory to all parties, artistically and financially. Mr. Hager and his accomplished daughter, we are informed, contemplate an early visit to California, and we can cordially recommend them and their entertainment to the press and public of that State. The good wishes of all, and especially of our school children and their teachers, will accompany them on their journeyings.

MARIE SEEBACH, the distinguished German tragedienne, will appear at the Academy of Music on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, producing "Mary Stuart" and "Faust." She comes to us with an established reputation as one of the greatest living exponents of tragedy. She has recently performed in Philadelphia and New York, and the press of those cities speak in the highest terms of her abilities. Her fame abroad is said to be nearly equal to that of Fechter. She is accompanied by a full company of the best German artistes, who render her efficient support.

MASONIC HALL.—Madame Rentz's Female Minstrels made their debut at the above hall on Saturday evening. To say that the hall was crowded would convey but a faint idea of the truth. It was literally packed with human beings, and at the hour of commencing many were turned away from the doors. The entertainment was well received, and elicited great applause. The troupe comprises artistes of every branch of the business, and their various specialties were finely rendered. This popular company will remain four nights, and we advise all lovers of rich entertainments to visit Masonic Hall. Reserved seats may be secured at Hoffman & Hale's music store, and those who wish to avoid the rush at night should act accordingly.

ST. BRIDGET'S FAIR.—The fair at St. Bridget's Church has thus far proved very successful, the attendance improving with each night. It will be continued throughout this week, and new and greater attractions will be presented. The voting on the various articles contested for increases in spirit, and will no doubt net a handsome return.

LIGHT GAUARD FAIR.—The fair of the Pittsburgh Light Guard, at City Hall, draws a large number of people nightly. A good time is assured to all who attend. At the close of the polls on Saturday night the candidates ahead were: On the gold watch, George W. Morris; staff officer's sword, Kilgore; Major's sword, Campbell; Captain's sword, Hope; First Lieutenant's sword, Mahan; Second Lieutenant's sword, Kearns; Sergeant's sword, Houston; Corporal's sword, McMullen; set of colors, Light Guards; editor's easy chair, Lawson; musical instruments, Lafayette Cornet Band, and shot gun, Capt. Elliott. The fair will continue this week, and sealed ballots on all articles being voted for will be received on Saturday night.

The Last Chance.

The great interest excited in our citizens by the rumors of peace, put forth the other day by some of our journals, will be eclipsed by the announcement that the great bankrupt sale of dry goods conducted by N. Whiting & Co., at No. 61 Wood street, will close at the end of this week. Such bargains as have been secured here were never dreamed of. Goods have gone at prices which would hardly pay for the raw material; but the sale is peremptory, and the stock must be closed out. If you would save money, go this week and invest. You will never regret following this advice.

Manufacturing Sites at Braddock's.

The facilities of rail by both the Central and Connellsville Railroads, together with the Monongahela navigation, make Braddock's the most valuable situation for all manufacturing purposes, where are great conveniences of coal, and ample accommodations for employees. Remarkable Cure of Deafness.

PITTSBURGH, PA., November 5, 1870.—Dr. G. A. Sprecher, Medical Electrician, 257 Penn street. My Dear Sir: I desire to make known in any way best suited to your own purposes the fact of the cure wrought in my case. I happened upon an advertisement some time ago, and noticed that such friends as General J. K. Moorhead and Judge Kirkpatrick had allowed the use of their names in support of your system of Electricity as a curative. This at once induced me to make trial of your treatment, and as a result I am most happy to state that a perfect cure has been brought about in my case of deafness. I most cheerfully authorize you in the use of my name, and hope for your encouragement and success in this great field of usefulness. Yours, most gratefully,

N. P. FETTERMAN,
Attorney at Law, 137 Fourth avenue.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Diseased Lungs.

There is no doubt whatever that diseases of the lungs, or ulcers of whatever sort, on any of the internal organs may be and are frequently cured, and a complete condition of health established. If the elaborate functions, of which the stomach is the primary and most important one, are restored to a condition to do the repairing for the human system, ulcers or sores, whether upon the lungs, the liver, the kidneys or the bowels, or upon the legs, as is frequently the case, can be made to heal, and a complete standard of health re-established.

We have frequently seen these results from the use of DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a pleasant and agreeable medicine, which will ripen up and carry out of the animal economy all effete and used up material. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is enriched by some of the most valuable plants and herbs known to be useful and curative in all deteriorated states of the human blood, and whilst it adds to its plasma, it at the same time stimulates, gently but effectively, the skin, the kidneys, the liver and the glandular system to efficient action to enable the body to take on healthful action and eradicate the disease. The sick and afflicted should bear in mind the virtues of this great medicine and if those who are sufficiently alive to the importance of health, will resort to it in the beginning of a cough or a cold, there would be no falling into declines and rapid consumption, so hopelessly incurable; and so most surely fatal. Let any one afflicted with any pulmonary disease try one bottle, and they will be convinced of the value of DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE. Sold by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at Dr. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh. If your druggist does not keep it, send five dollars to Dr. Keyser, and he will send four bottles securely boxed, by express, with full directions how to use it. Price $1 50 per bottle. MWS

It is a Significant Fact

Mantel Ornaments.

There is no greater mistake made than in purchasing cheap articles, of base material and indifferent workmanship, for mantel ornaments. It is just as ridiculous as to throw money away on pinchbeck jewelry. The eye soon tires of both, whereas a really elegant ornament, of genuine material and skillful finish, is admired through life, and becomes more valuable with age. Such is the character of the ornaments to be had at Messrs. R. E. Breed & Co.'s, No. 100 Wood street.

Would desire to furnish his table with cheap, or second rate queensware; much less would he wish to purchase the ordinary plated ware of the "bogus" order. In buying this class of goods, it is the best economy to go to a reliable house, and pay a fair price for a really good article, such as can always be had at the extensive warehouse of R. E. Breed & Co., No. 100 Wood street.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY:

COMFORT, BEAUTY, DURABILITY
AND CHEAPNESS.
The New School Furniture,
THE Patent Gothic Desk.
An unrivalled favorite in School circles, because it combines the following advantages over all other Desks:
1st. It secures an erect position by a careful combination of the curves in the back and seat, which exactly conforms to the physiological structure of the body.
2d. Any one can fasten them to their place in the school room by a triple brace. It is 75 per cent. more firmly secured to the floor than any other Desk.
3d. It is the handsomest Desk in the market.
4th. It has no sharp corners or edges, and is entirely noiseless, the folding seat working on gum and being furnished with the newly improved Ink Wells.
5th. It is as cheap as any and cheaper than many of the Inferior Desks.
6th. It has never failed to secure a sale when placed in competition with other Desks.
It is fast superceding all others in this region, everywhere giving the most complete satisfaction.
Be sure to examine before purchasing. It is just what you want. Circulars free to any address.
